Red China Insists American Prisoners Do Not Have Right To Ask Return

LONDON (AP)—Red China refused today to fix a time limit for the release of Americans the Communists are holding in prison as criminals. Peiping radio, commenting on Chinese-American talks in Geneva, said:

"While they are serving their sentences, they have no right to request permission to return to the United States."

The United States has accused Red China of violating an agreement it made Sept. 10 to permit all American citizens within its control to return home "expeditiously." The Chinese Communists said 27 of 40 Americans had been released so far.

"Americans who offended against the law in China must be dealt with in accordance with Chinese legal procedures and no time limit can be set for their release," the Peiping broadcast said. "Furthermore, while they are serving their sentences, they have no right to request permission to return to the United States."

"It is only when they have completed their sentences or when China has adopted measures to release them before the completion of their sentences that the question of their exercising the right to return can arise."

"As to what measures China will adopt in accordance with Chinese legal procedures and when such measures will be adopted in regard to them, that is a matter of China's sovereignty in which no foreign interference is allowed."

An American-Chinese communication issued in Geneva Sept. 10 said machinery had been set up so the imprisoned Americans could be released "expeditiously." The State Department in Washington interpreted that to mean "promptly." The announcement said Britain, which has a charge d'affaires in Peiping, would be asked to aid in repatriation of the Americans and that "appropriate measures" would be taken by Peiping to assure that the detained Americans could "expeditiously exercise their right" to go home. But interpretation of the key words—"appropriate measures" and "expeditiously"—was left up to the Chinese.

None of the prisoners are from the Midwest.

Slight Injury In Car-Truck Accident

A 1948 Ford truck of the Continental Baking Co., driven by Wayne Rucker, 1905 South Sneed, overturned on U. S. Highway 52 in the east part of Cole Camp about 2:30 p. m. Thursday. The truck overturned in front of an oncoming 1952 Oldsmobile 98 sedan driven by F. E. Wilmot, 47, of near Stover, which stopped as it nudged into the rear of the truck.

Rucker was accompanied by his brother, Eddie Rucker, 1001 South Carr, who suffered minor bruises. Wilmot was accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Sylvia Wilmot, who was not injured.

Rucker told Sgt. E. W. Van Winkle and Trooper Richard Jones he was driving about 30 miles an hour and headed west on Highway 52. As he came around a curve the front end of the auto began shaking and he saw the car approaching from the west and pulled to the narrow shoulder.

The soft gravel gave way and caused the steering wheel to jerk out of Rucker's hands, skidded sideways, wheeled around headed east and rolled slowly over on its right side. The Oldsmobile struck the rear end barely hanging up on the truck body.

The truck body was badly damaged, all windows broken out. Rucker escaped with minor

Today Last Day Sedalians May Indicate Choice For Most Outstanding Woman

Today is the last opportunity Sedalians will have to vote for the outstanding woman of 1955, with no votes being accepted that are postmarked later than midnight tonight.

This contest, sponsored for the first time by the DAV last year, is to honor a woman who had contributed the most to her community during the year. The selection will not be made by the number of ballots cast but by the greatest achievement of any one woman during the year that contributed the most to the community.

This may mean any of a number of things, it may be in the form of charity and welfare; it may be the giving of her talents; it may be civic work of any kind; it may be, as the winner was determined last year, the molding of young lives beyond the call of duty, either through the schools or through youthful organizations; it may be contributions of various other kinds. The main thing is that she gives of her time and herself for the betterment of the lives of the people in the community in which she lives, according to the DAV.

The qualifications for the outstanding woman candidate must be on the ballot and these qualifications will be considered and weighed by a group of women judges from different walks of life.

The announcement of the winner will be made at the DAV banquet which will be held at 7:30 p. m. Monday at the Epworth Methodist Church, Broadway and Engineer. Congressman Morgan M. Moulder will be the speaker of the evening.

Willard Morris is commander of the DAV, and will present to the outstanding woman the many lovely gifts from some of the Sedalia merchants.

St. Louis Democrats Endorse Symington For the Presidency

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis County Democratic Committee is the first such group to endorse Sen. Stuart Symington for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The action came yesterday with the 26 committee members present approving a resolution endorsing Missouri's junior senator.

The St. Louis Democratic City Committee will take up the subject tonight at a meeting.

The county group's resolution praised Symington for his record in industry, in the executive branch of the government and as a senator and urged the party's state convention to instruct the Missouri delegation for Symington.

Copy Editor Challenges Committee

Robert Shelton Refuses to Answer Senate Inquiries

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert Shelton, a copy editor for the New York Times, refused today to say if he is a Communist and challenged the right of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee to ask him the question.

He contended the question not only violated his rights under the First Amendment to the Constitution but also threatened freedom of the press.

When Shelton refused to invoke the Fifth Amendment against possible self-incrimination, Chairman Eastland (D-Miss.) ordered him to answer the question "on penalty of contempt" of the U. S. Senate.

Shelton again declined to say whether he was a Communist, and emphasized that he was not invoking the Fifth Amendment.

Today was the third and final day of the current series of public hearings in the subcommittee's hunt for red influences in the press and other media. Eastland said there will be other hearings later.

Eastland told reporters the subcommittee already is conducting closed-door sessions in preparation for additional public hearings later and added that the investigation "will not be confined to New York City."

So far most of those heard in the current phase of the inquiry have been employees of New York City newspapers.

One of them, who refused to say yesterday whether he was a communist, promptly lost his job as a reporter for the New York Daily News. He is William A. Price, who said he started working on the Daily News as a copy boy in 1940 and has been with the paper ever since except for 4½ years as a naval aviator during World War II.

Declining to invoke the Fifth Amendment's protection against possible self-incrimination, Price refused to answer many of the subcommittee's questions, although Eastland repeatedly told him he was risking punishment for contempt of the Senate.

The Daily News published in today's editions a telegram it said had been sent to Price by Executive Editor Richard Clarke, saying in part:

"Your conduct as a witness before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee . . . today has destroyed your usefulness to the News. Therefore your services as an employee of the News are being terminated immediately."

Clarke told Price the News will pay him any salary or other amounts due him and that, "if you so request, payment will be mailed to your home address."

Price, in declining to answer questions put to him, said the subcommittee had no right to inquire "into my private affairs" since he held no public office and drew no pay from the government.

Sam Rayburn Observes His 74th Birthday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) turned 74 today, looking and acting younger than many colleagues much his junior.

Wires and telephone calls reached his Capitol office congratulating him. He has served as speaker longer than any other person in history—11 years, 3 months and 20 days.

Just before the House recessed yesterday for the weekend, members of both political parties eulogized Rayburn, who has been a member of that body since March 4, 1913. It was noted that he has served longer than any other present House member.

Joplin Will Have Vote On Large Annexation

JOPLIN (AP)—An election will be held April 3 on the question of whether the city should annex about 10 square miles of land. The present area of the city is about 17 square miles.

Pettis County Farmers Jam Courthouse at NFO Meeting

DISCUSSES MESSAGE TO CONGRESS—President Eisenhower is shown in his office at the Naval Base at Key West, Fla., as he discussed his State of the Union message which was read to Congress in Washington a short time later. (NEA Telephone)

Speakers Stress Need to Correct Benson Program

Pettis County farmers crowded into the Circuit Court room and in the halls on the third floor of the courthouse to attend a meeting of the National Farmers Organization which is being started in Pettis County. Several speakers were on the program and primary plans were made for the completing of the organization for this county.

Local farmers who are interested in forming the organization in Pettis County anticipated a crowd of about 100, but before the meeting got underway more than 600 were accounted for on the third floor of the courthouse.

Olen E. Downs acted as temporary chairman of the meeting and introduced the various speakers.

The National Farmers Organization, it was pointed out, is a non-profit, non-partisan and non-political organization formed strictly for legislative interests of the farmer.

The present officers of the organization are Olen Lee Staley, Rea, Mo., the president; Harry Grundman, Prescott, Ia., vice-president; Bill Barnes, Lamoni, Ia., secretary; and Duane Orton, Atlantic, Ia., treasurer. Two of the national board of directors are Missourians, Forest Nave Jr., Lexington, and Keeran McKenny, King City.

Among the officers present at the meeting here were Orton, Nave and McKenny, all of whom took part in the discussions.

Nave was the first speaker. He sketched briefly some of the points of the organization and stressed the need for such an organization for the farmers in obtaining legislative action in Washington.

Ed Chappell, Adams County, Ia., farmer, told the crowd in opening his talk, "I would like to continue farming but I can't see how I can under the present prices to the farmer for his products."

He pointed out that in 1941 he took 36 hogs to buy a tractor which cost approximately $784, while in 1955 it would take 140 hogs to buy the same tractor which now costs approximately $2,700, that is, a two-fold tractor.

"The farmer, as you can see," Chappell said, "is caught in a cost-price squeeze. We buy on the retail and sell on wholesale, and our wholesale is much lower in comparison to what other commodities bring."

He also said, "Farm prices have dropped more in the past six months than they dropped in the depression days of the '30s."

Wayland Hopley, Jr., also of Atlantic, Ia., said, "We can be classed as the Minute Men of the present generation, protecting our homes and farms, as the Minute Men of the Revolutionary days protected their home and property."

Concluding, he said "We want legislation giving us 100 per cent parity."

Duane Orton, in opening his talk said, "I, as an officer of the National Farmers' Organization, take this opportunity to congratulate Missouri on having a fine group of Congressmen, and especially your two Senators, Sen. Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., and Sen. Stuart Symington in Washington. They are for us farmers."

"It is our battle to hold up the good old American tradition to the best of our ability, and thus we can beat Communism," he said. In concluding his talk, he said of Secretary of Agriculture Benson, "He would be better called Secretary of Consumers."

He pointed out the Atlantic Seed Co., of Atlantic, Ia., handled 50,000 less sales in December of last year compared to the previous year.

"This," he said, "indicates the farm purchase power has already hit the Main Street of every city in the country. A good farm program will pay for itself through increased income, tax receipts, farmers and on through business, labor and industry."

In conclusion, he remarked "Benson is honest. He said he wouldn't do anything and he didn't."

The principal talk on organization was given by McKenny. He referred to former Gov. Dan Turner of Iowa as being "our balance (Please turn to page 2, column 6)

Senator Byrd Urges Backing School Change

Wants to Permit Giving State Aid To Private Schools

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) voiced a new appeal for support of a proposed state constitutional change today amid a flurry of new attacks from religious leaders against the plan to use public funds for private education.

The new statements came as Virginia headed into the final week-end of intensive campaigning on the proposal to issue tuition grants for attendance at private schools as a means of avoiding compulsory integration.

Virginians will vote Monday to determine whether a constitutional contention shall be held.

Byrd, in a statement being broadcast over 15 radio stations during the day, said "not a single leading educator" has claimed the proposal would destroy the public school system.

But new opposition came from religious groups. The Hampton Roads Rabbinical Assn., 28 Southwestern Diocese Episcopal ministers, 47 Lynchburg ministers and the Harrisonburg Ministerial Assn. announced stands against the tuition grant plan.

There were also these developments:

Rep. William M. Tuck of the 5th Dist., in a speech at Farmville last night, said the issue boiled down to whether "we favor or oppose the mixing of the races."

Dr. Reuben Alley, editor of the Baptist Religious Herald, said in an editorial it was "absurd" to say a vote against the amendment was a vote for integration.

Dr. George Reamey, editor of the Virginia Methodist Advocate, asked "what will become of the vast army of poor children" whose parents cannot afford to send them to private schools.

Ted Duonois of Richmond, a national AFL-CIO official, told a Bristol labor meeting approval of the amendment might produce increased juvenile delinquency and relaxation of child labor laws.

Colgate W. Darden Jr., president of the University of Virginia, urged a Bristol audience to support the amendment and "not turn your backs" on southside Virginia.

Byrd said the amendment would merely give the Legislature "some carefully guarded leeway in its efforts to preserve our public school system which is now seriously threatened under the recent decision by the U. S. Supreme Court."

The head of the state's Democratic organization said he believed Virginians could "rely upon the intelligence, the patriotism and the good faith of members" of the General Assembly.

Morgan Co. Farmers Will Meet To Discuss Farmers' Organization

Morgan County farmers will hold a meeting Monday night at the Versailles City Hall for the purpose of discussing the possibilities of organizing a National Farmers Organization chapter. It will begin at 8 p. m.

The meeting will be presided over by George H. Pace who has been named as temporary Morgan County chairman.

National officers will be on hand to explain the functions of the non-partisan, non-political organization which does not believe in any type of violence.

Several Morgan County farmers attended the organizational meeting in Sedalia Wednesday night.

Will Invite Nehru To Visit West Germany

BONN, Germany (AP)—Vice Chancellor Franz Blucher said today he is going to invite Indian Prime Minister Nehru to visit West Germany.

Blucher will extend the invitation during his own visit to India. He flies there Monday with an eight-man delegation to study India's industrial expansion program and economic situation.

Earth Tremor Wakes South Kansas People

PRATT, Kan. (AP)—A disturbance, described as a distinct earth tremor, awakened residents and rattled dishes and windows in many towns in southern Kansas early today.

Some residents said they thought it was a bomb going off, others said it felt more like it had "a puff to it—sort of like an air blast," and still others said their first reaction was that an airplane had broken the sound barrier.

The shock lasted only a few seconds. No damage was reported.

Mrs. Homer Gifford, who lives five miles east and seven miles south of Greensburg, said she felt two shocks—the first about 6 a. m. and the second a couple of minutes later.

Mrs. Gifford said fishes in her cupboard rattled. She said she called friends in the area and they, along with the Greensburg telephone operator, said they also felt the shocks.

At Stafford, the door of one home flew open and floors shook. Windows rattled at Kingman.

Residents of Pratt reported they were awakened by the shock that lasted about five seconds.

The shock also was felt at Sharon and Medicine Lodge.

At Lawrence, Louis Dellwig, assistant professor in the University of Kansas geology department, said the university's seismograph recorded two shocks 29½ minutes apart.

The first reading, he said, was picked up at 5:59.01 a. m. and the shock probably took place at 5:57.54. The instrument, he said, indicated the shock was between 235 and 280 miles from Lawrence, probably closer to 280. He explained that the closer a tremor is the harder it is to pinpoint it.

Dellwig said the K. U. seismograph is not calibrated to determine intensity too closely but that the first shock "seems to have been a pretty fair tremor." The second, he added, appeared to have been far less intense.

Cross Winds Caused WAFB Plane Crash

Heroic Effort Also Revealed In Crash Which Killed Two

The plane crash at the Whiteman Air Force Base resulting in the death of two Whiteman Air Force Base Airmen last Tuesday afternoon was due to a dusty cross wind, an investigating board determined.

The plane had been piloted by A/3c Franklin D. Blank, 19, 1320 South Ohio, who was killed in the crash and T/Sgt. George F. Aylsworth, Knob Noster, who died of injuries later Tuesday, was a passenger.

An investigating board found the plane crashed in the takeoff that was too steep, the major factor being the wind.

The takeoff was into the wind and the pilot started the climb and because of the wind stalled in a climbing turn. The plane then went down in a steep angle. It was apparent the pilot was making every effort to pull out of the stall and when the board investigating the crash checked the wreckage the throttle was open to full power.

It was found from a Civil Aeronautics Authority investigation that the gasoline tank which was located in the wings over the cockpit burst when the plane crashed.

Gasoline sprayed over the two men and out over the engine and burst into flames. The CAA also found the plane in good mechanical condition at the time of the crash, in accordance with records on the plane and examination of the wreckage.

Further investigations revealed T/Sgt. Aylsworth made a heroic effort in trying to save A/3c Blank. It was learned Aylsworth with his own clothing burning tried in vain to release Blank who was pinned in the wreckage and finally got out of the plane himself, but not until after he had been critically burned.

It was necessary to cut away parts of the metal frame of the plane to free the body of Blank.

The plane was the property of the SAC Aero Club at the Whiteman Air Force Base, where the two men were stationed. The SAC Aero Club is a private Club composed of members of the Air Force who join together to form a recreational flying group. The plane is purchased by its members for their own private use during off duty hours and has no connection with the Air Force.

There are some 25 such clubs scattered over the Strategic Air Command bases.

CAP Hears Captain Sam Tuck of WAFB

Captain Sam Tuck, safety officer at the Whiteman Air Force Base, gave a talk to the Sedalia Civil Air Patrol Squadron Thursday night at a combined meeting of the Senior and Cadet Squadrons. He spoke on the various phases of his job, both in the air and on the ground.

In his talk Capt. Tuck pointed out there were more medical expenditures for private vehicle accidents than for all accidents occurring on the base for the year of 1955.

He also explained to the group how extensive an investigation of an air crash is. He showed photos of a crash of a KC-97 refueling plane last year and told of the findings of the board of inquiry and how the members came to their decision. He displayed a 50-page report on the fatal KC-97 crash.

Capt. Tuck discussed the various ways that a pilot of a private plane can help prevent accidents. The speaker is well known in Sedalia, being reared and educated at Houstonia as a youth, and a frequent visitor here. He is a veteran of World War II and after the war was out of the service for a short period before being recalled to active duty. He has been assigned to the local base for some time now.

'On Going to Church' Will Be the Subject At First Methodist

This Sunday is Covenant Sunday, when Methodist people everywhere are asked to renew their dedication to Christ and their vows to the church, and commit themselves to the high privilege and obligation to attend church every Sunday for the next three months. For this service Dr. Elmer L. Hobbs, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will use for his sermon subject "On Going to Church." The Chancel Choir will sing "The One Hundredth Psalm" by Mueller and the Chapel Choir will sing "Lift Up Your Heads, O Ye Gates" by Keating.

On Wednesday night, following the fellowship dinner, a new Bible study will begin. During the next few weeks a survey of the New Testament will be made, dealing with the general content, purpose and aim of various biblical books. The youth groups will have regular meetings at the same time.

Baptist Churches Start Year With Bible Study

The Baptist churches of the territory of the Southern Baptist Convention are beginning the new year with a Bible study. This year the study is based on the "Sermon on the Mount." On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week the First Baptist of Sedalia will join in this study and the class meeting will be held at 7:15 p. m. The concluding studies will be on the following week on the 16th and 17th. The study is open to all members and friends of the church.

The pastor's subjects for Sunday will be, morning, "Taking a Risk for Jesus," and in the evening, "Running the Gauntlet." There will be special music at both services.

Farmers' Meeting

"The National Farmers Organization began the middle of September and has been one of the most quickly-organized groups in the history of our country. We started in September with our first membership of 55,659 and have grown already to well over 70,000 and expect by the next month or two to have a membership in the Middle West of over 100,000.

"We are out to solve our problems on a dignified basis. We are not asking any more for ourselves than what we are entitled to. I point out that in 1947, the best year in agriculture, the farmer earned an average net of $3,000. This past year the net will be very low. High prices of commodities are out of sight of the farmers' wholesale price.

"We oppose the expenditure of vast sums of money in reclamation of desert lands for agriculture purposes. I say we should wait on this until we have agriculture lands can earn a fair price for our commodities which we now produce instead of trying to open such lands to lower the prices and especially when such lands are not necessary at this time. We don't want any dams built in the west until we cannot furnish food to feed all.

"Our work begins in the townships," he said in reference to the organization. "First the people in the townships have the full say. In each township organization of officers are elected, the president and vice-president to be of opposite political faith. They will represent the township in the county organization which elects its officers in the same manner. These two officers represent the county in the state organization and so on to the national.

"The township problems are presented to the county for county-wide discussion. This is carried to the state for discussion and the findings carried to the national in which it is weighed and acted upon for the majority.

"We are not organized for the purpose of entering any kind of business and are strictly for the support of legislation which is good for the farmer," he said. He pointed out the buying power of the farmer. He said, "We farmers buy one-third of the steel, most petroleum products and rubber. But what the farmer receives today now in buying power is less than in the 1930's. A tractor could be purchased then for about $750, an automobile between $600 and $700, and a hired man could be hired for $25 a month, but not in these days.

"Also," he said, "imports on cattle are far out of line compared to other imports. In the first six months of 1955, 206,816 head of cattle and nine million pounds of chilled beef were imported in this country from Mexico in competition to the U. S. farmer and cattle raiser."

The township chairmen were named at the close of the meeting and received application blanks

Winter trends in hair styles are off in all directions but the be-draggled. This pair, by Jean DeChant, indicates two of the trends. Width at the temples (left) is complemented with bangs. The long, sleek look (right) is heightened with streaks.

Hair Style Trends Are As Indefinite as Crab Grass

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Hair style trends are about as indefinite as trends in crab grass. About all that can be said is whether hair is longer or shorter than last year or the year before. And, hair being what it is, if it's longer, it's never much longer. though it can go radically shorter in a season.

This winter the trend is what you want to make it. It is longer and it's not Italian or out-in-the-rain. It's softer and flossy-feminine rather than Apache-feminine.

What this really means is that the stylists are creating coiffures for hair that's growing out of the Italian and crew-cut stage. The high-style professional models are faking it with switches and chignons or utilizing some of the pretty, thoroughly-styled cuts under discussion. The rest of us are relying on good cutting and permanents to make medium-length hair as pretty as can be.

New York's Jean DeChant does it in two ways. He does a longer sleek bob called the Debutante. It has a flat crown, smooth as a cat, to the head, and a soft wave at the ends, to add length and smoothness, he uses color streaks.

The other, more ornate, look he does is called the Profile Bob. It highlights width at the temples, one of the numerous trends evident this winter. It's pulled back at one side and done with bangs and waves.

How to Pot Flowering Bulbs For Winter Months Ahead

By HENRY FREE
Written for NEA Service

Two varieties of flowering bulbs which may be continuously potted for the winter indoor garden are the paper-white narcissus and the Chinese sacred lily.

Prepared fiber or plain granulated peat moss may be used, and the containers can be undrained bowls or pots. Soak either moss or fiber several days until it is damp enough to hold together when squeezed in the hand.

Buy first-class, large, firm bulbs. In planting, see that the soil or fiber beneath the bulbs is not pressed down hard.

Firm earth around them prevents heaving when the roots push out. Keep constantly moist, give plenty of water, then tilt the dish and let the surplus run off.

Put in cool darkness—not over 50 degrees—until the roots have formed, then place in a sunny window.

February and March suns are the enemies of boxbush. Plenty of water at the roots before winter clamps down should be given until the ground is too frozen to absorb it. Well-rotted manure is beneficial when used as a mulch around the roots, to be applied after the ground has hardened.

To shade box plants from the sun construct a structure of laths, strong poles or bamboo over them. Over this frame fasten evergreen boughs or corn stalks closely enough so that no sunlight reaches the plant.

Take care, however, that the covering neither touches the leaves nor excludes a circulation of air. Be sure not to remove the protection in the spring until settled warm weather has come; then do it and water often.

It Is Very Easy to Make Feminine Bedroom Scuffs

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Maybe you haven't thought how easy it is to make pretty, frilly, feminine bedroom scuffs—perfect for presents, for bazaars or to wear yourself.

You will need a pair of light weight sponge rubber soles, widely available at very low cost; 1/4 yard of white or pastel nylon tricot; two 2-inch circles of interfacing material; 1/2 yard of 45-inch sheer crisp nylon in white or a pastel color; and thread to match.

Trace the outline of the sponge rubber soles on paper. Cut a pattern for each sole, allowing 1/4-inch seam allowance around the outside. Use this pattern to cut a double thickness of tricot for covering each sole.

Now cut 2 circles of interfacing material, 2 inches in diameter; and cut 7 strips, crosswise the fabric, of the crisp nylon 2 inches wide, to make 3/4 strips for the ruffled rosette on each scuff. Cut 2 bands of crisp nylon 4 inches wide, long enough to cover the widest part of foot, plus 1 inch for seam allowance.

Seam the sole sections with a 1/2-inch seam, joining in the bands at the widest part of the sole, with the outside edges even. Extra seam allowance is taken up by the thickness of the sole. Leave a small opening, and turn fabric right side out with band across top. Slip sole into covering and slip-stitch edges of opening together.

Next, seam 3/4 strips of crisp nylon together for each rosette. Pink the seams and press open. Picot 1 long edge, using the hem-stitching attachment on the sewing machine. Gather the other long edge, using the ruffler set for a very full gather. Trim seam very close to stitching.

Make rosettes by hand-sewing the gathered strip to the circle of interfacing, starting at the outside and continuing in spiral fashion. Place each circle about 1/4 inch inside the previous one. As a finishing touch, attach a tiny fake rosebud to center of each circle. (Baste or fasten with snapfastener)

ROSETTE SCUFFS—Easy to make at home and fun to wear.

(for easy removal when washing.) Sew finished rosette to top center of the band on each scuff.

Polio Isn't Licked Yet

This is the month of the March of Dimes.

People are so familiar with the slogan they know it relates to Polio and the annual public opportunity to contribute to development of progress in the field of polio prevention. During the past year this has been outstanding particularly so because 1955 was a year when a 12-month study of the Salk vaccine ended and showed the vaccine was safe, potent and effective; a year when about 7,000,000 children received vaccine provided by the March of Dimes and an estimated 3,000,000 more received vaccine through other sources.

Sedalia children received vaccine shots, too.

But like almost every community there were polio cases here that made up the overall 30,000 in the United States, which indicates the tragic truth polio is not licked yet.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis faces 1956 with assumption of responsibility for the care of 68,000 patients.

The fight against polio is only waged by costly implements and methods related to the five targets for the stricken: survival, freedom from the iron lung, learning to breath without help; the struggle toward rising up to resume a useful life, and learning to live again.

Sedalia needs be thankful there has been no raging polio epidemic like those experienced in Massachusetts and Wisconsin when tragedy was brought to thousands of homes.

Millions of children are being protected through vaccine supplied by the March of Dimes; many thousands are aided toward recovery each year. All of this takes money.

Sedalians and Central Missourians are familiar with only a few polio cases in this area when one thinks about this disease in terms of epidemic proportions.

That does not mean we are not vulnerable.

In the meantime the costly and ambitious program of polio research must continue and we of Central Missouri, having been spared a raging epidemic, have double reason to support this program by contributing generously to the March of Dimes.

Pentagon Puts Chill on Mitchell Movie

WASHINGTON — The armed services have been at each other's throats over everything from helicopters to troop-transport planes, but suddenly they have decided to carry out "unification" in regard to motion pictures.

The Pentagon has decided to give the cold shoulder to Gary Cooper's new picture, "The Court-Martial of Billy Mitchell," because it puts the Air Force in a favorable light compared with the Army and Navy.

Instead of opening with a big hurrah, with a sendoff from the Pentagon Brass, the picture is opening at an inconspicuous downtown theatre. But, more important, the Navy slashed to ribbons one important part of the fight-over-air-power story.

This was the real history of how the Navy, in trying to promote its lighter-than-air dirigible, The Shenandoah, forced Commander Zachary Lansdowne to go on a flying junket over midwest county fairs despite his protest that he couldn't carry enough fuel to make the trip and avoid approaching storms.

As a result, the Shenandoah crashed in one of the worst air disasters in naval history.

Commander Lansdowne was a close friend of Billy Mitchell. Both were fighting for aerial warfare as against infantry and battleships. But when Milton Spurling, producer of "Court-martial of Billy Mitchell," asked the Navy where he could locate Lansdowne's widow, the Navy claimed she was dead. Finally he located her in Washington, the present Mrs. Betsy Caswell, and got from her the story of how her late husband, Commander Lansdowne, had written a protest against taking the dirigible on a flight at the request of congressmen to cover a series of county fairs.

Safe Is Riffed
The Navy, however, overruled the protest. It was lobbying for congressional appropriations and wanted to appease the congressmen.

After the dirigible was lost in an electric storm, Commander Lansdowne's safe at Lakehurst, N. J., was found broken open and his written protest gone. His widow, however, had carbon copies, and at the naval board of inquiry called to fix the blame for the disaster, she read his confidential protest and cleared her husband's name.

Later she also testified at the Billy Mitchell court-martial.

However, when Warner Brothers proposed putting this part of the story in the Billy Mitchell picture, the Navy protested, threatened such road blocks that this part of the story was eliminated.

Despite this censorship, however, the picture is sensational enough that top Pentagon brass decided it put the Army and Navy in a bad light, and that for "unification's" sake, the picture would be officially ignored.

Note — This is the second recent attempt at government movie censorship, the other being the crackdown on Narcotics Commissioner Harry Anslinger on "The Man With the Golden Arm." Anslinger objected because Frank Sinatra, who plays the part of the dope addict, gets cured instead of committing suicide as happened in the original plot. Government frowns

Guest Editorial—

KENNETT (Pa.) NEWS-ADVERTISER: Olympics Not Propaganda. An editorial in a New York daily newspaper encourages us to give liberally to the United States Olympic Fund, so that we may send a strong team of United States athletes against the propaganda attack which the Russians will launch should they win the Olympic title.

Reporters tell us that for at least four years Russia has been subsidizing its athletes, by giving them sinecure government jobs, with little or no work to do, but demanding that they train intensively to win the 1956 Olympic championship.

It seems to us that something has gone off the beam in what has always been highly regarded as the peak of amateur athletic competition. We have gained the impression that the games have always been run for sportsmanship and to develop comradeship — that they are to lead to international understanding and goodwill.

If they have become instead, in the eyes of most people, a place for international struggles for propaganda power, it would be better to withdraw from them entirely. Or if they are to be a means of presenting the best athletes a government can develop, then have the officials administering the Olympics say so.

Union Message Contains No Firecrackers

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's fourth State of the Union message to Congress reflects more than the temper of the times.

It was a calm, restrained message at a time when on the surface the world is calm. While the war with communism continues unabated, it is being fought without guns right now. There were no firecrackers in the message.

Three years of responsibility for running the government and leading the anti-Communist world, judging from the message, have had a sobering effect on the Eisenhower administration.

This message was quite different from the one Eisenhower delivered to Congress in 1953, just after he had taken office and returned from his dramatic post-election trip to Korea, where the war was still on.

In that message, his first, Eisenhower announced he was withdrawing the 7th Fleet from its protective role around Formosa. This was the famous "unleashing" of Chiang Kai-shek.

It was a piece of theatricalism which Eisenhower has probably regretted. Chiang couldn't have hit the mainland Red Chinese without big American help.

He never got the help. Instead, he's been bottled up to keep him from starting a war which he couldn't finish and which would involve the United States on the mainland.

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Anthony D. Stanley, president and general manager of the Sedalia Democrat Company, publisher of the Sedalia Evening Democrat and the Sedalia Morning Capital, died at his home, 711 West Broadway, at 5 p.m. Jan. 5. Death came after a stroke he suffered the Saturday night previous, Jan. 3.

Miss Velma Lyon, Kansas City, former Sedalia soprano, appeared in the motion picture, "Viennese Nights," that was showing at the Liberty Theater.

Operation of billiard rooms in Sedalia after being banned for seven years are to be again permitted to operate. The county court authorized the county clerk to issue a permit to C. J. McEniry, proprietor of the Smoke House.

B. B. Bettis, automobile salesman, was confirmed by the city council to serve as milk inspector for the City of Sedalia.

FORTY YEARS AGO
John W. Baldwin engaged in the grocery business through purchase of the stock of James A. Thomas which he moved to 12th and Kentucky.

Mrs. Harry Sneed injured in an automobile accident several weeks previous was admitted to St. Mary's Hospital for recuperation.

The title "commercial agent" held by V. J. Kaiser, with the Missouri Pacific was changed to general agent. His work with the railroad was practically as it had been.

An address on "Eugenics" was delivered before the Nehemgar Club by President E. L. Hendricks, Ph. D., of the state normal at Warnersburg.

If Eisenhower hoped to scare the Red Chinese by "unleashing" Chiang, they did not show it. But he startled, if he didn't scare, American allies who could foresee themselves involved on the mainland too.

The Eisenhower administration, through Secretary of State Dulles, gave the Allies some bad hours later also. That was by his talk of "massive retaliation" which was never inflicted even when North Indochina fell.

There were no theatricalisms in Eisenhower's message this year. The Allies have shown the most confidence in American leadership when it stays calm. Eisenhower spoke calmly of Soviet intentions and the need to stay armed.

Dr. Jordan Says—

Some Readers Contract Each Ailment Discussed

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

I am sometimes "worried" that there will be readers of this column who have active imaginations and worrying dispositions and will think they have every disease discussed.

If there are any such among today's readers, I should like to urge them to refrain from looking at such discussions in the future.

A great many people can learn about their bodies and the diseases which might interfere with health without being bothered. But there are always some whose imaginations are so keen that they begin to think they have the pains and aches or other symptoms of anything they hear about.

It is always well to remember that nature is a great healer. Most people who become sick, even with serious illness, recover entirely.

Others who fall ill progress to a stage where the disease from which they suffered has been conquered even though some bad effects may remain. Some may even suffer serious disabilities such as the loss of a limb or an eye from disease or injury and yet be able to resume active and useful lives.

Another thing which should be remembered when reading about the many diseases and injuries which may afflict mankind is that even though people can get a great many diseases they never do. The chances are that the average person will encounter only a few really serious conditions in an entire lifetime and will recover from these.

Those who are constantly anxious are worse off than those who use reasonable precautions and then take their chances without always anticipating the worst.

The worrier usually becomes what is known as a "neurotic," frequently shopping around from place to place asking for an explanation for something which may exist in the mind rather than the body.

Avoidance of unnecessary risk by careless exposure to disease

The Democrats did to this message what they have done to some of Eisenhower's other messages: they mocked it as being simply an extension of the New Deal and "Fair Deal."

But they know, as Eisenhower does, no party could hope to keep office if it sought to eliminate, or failed to extend to some degree, the basic social programs of the past 20 years. And this is an election year.

All the domestic parts of Eisenhower's message prove that the Democrats and Republicans are close together. The Democrats themselves are offering only some extensions of their old program. They haven't offered anything startling either.

or injury is desirable. Also, it is good sense to recognize serious symptoms early so that the disease responsible can get prompt treatment. But the person who is in a constant sweat of anxiety would be better off to read and think about less disturbing subjects.

What They Say

A SEDALIA OBSERVER: Those Battered Ensigns. Sometimes standing out in winter's gusty blasts as if stiffed with starch, and sometimes hanging free and limp as if over-wary from the march, are the battered ensigns of the United Fund Campaign. They've faded from sun and are now a tattle tale grey that tells of their valiant fight . . . a long fight waged in their courageous campaign for help for the sick, the under-privileged, the needy and oblivious youth. Once proud ensigns placed with a purpose on the standards of battle . . . pure white they were, and trim of edge with a brilliant red symbol of a cause, U F they said . . . "come one, come all, join the battle fight for our cause." "Give a little everyone . . . this campaign is won, if you'll only join." They did their part . . . these battered ensigns, but their fancy for the fight has long been lost . . . their moral is shattered, their spirit gone . . . symbols now of a victory not won. "What!" "They didn't win!" "Why, it's a sin." "This is America . . . why, we're so prosperous we can buy victory." Yes, we can buy victory of a sort . . . the sort that takes machines, and oil and atoms . . . but this was a campaign of another kind . . . a fight for funds, for dollars, so that kindred kind could continue the battle in humanity's name.

Whose was the blame? The General was there planning the battle . . . and his lieutenants too . . . and yes there were soldiers there, but far too few. Many were deaf when the bugle blew . . . they failed to follow them into the fight.

And now those ensigns once so bright are battered and torn . . . symbols of a victory never born.

As Sedalia Sees It—

Kefauver's Somnambulistic Aura May Be Due Pressure

By JOSEPH A. DEAR
Democrat-Capital
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Even those who have worked with him closely admit Estes Kefauver is a hard man to know.

He's easy to meet, but that's not the same thing. The essence of the man is elusive.

That's one reason so many Democratic professionals are cool to his candidacy for the party nomination. They want a candidate they understand. Not an enigma.

Kefauver appears a man of calm dignity. It is not distorted by television. What TV misses, though, is his zombie-like air. He has prodigious energy that is not immediately apparent. In fact, his grave bearing and unruffled calm might be mistaken as the attributes of a shambling sleep-walker.

The somnambulistic aura that sometimes seems to envelop him is probably due to the terrific political pressure he is under. He has almost always run as the underdog. That was the case when he made the jump from the House to the Senate. Boss Crump of Memphis didn't want him. But he shook hands with so many Tennessee voters that the Memphis machine didn't matter.

During a campaign lull, when Kefauver was in Washington, he was greeted by the traffic cop while strolling from the House Office Building to the Capitol. The reaction was automatic. "Estes Kefauver is my name," he said, thrusting out his hand.

Kefauver is not ruffled by nasty twisters reporters threw at him. Nor by the unsettling situations that can arise.

Once, while attending an international conference in Stockholm, the Kefauvers were assigned a hotel room already occupied by the Brewsters — Owen Brewster was then the Senator from Maine, and got to the room before his wife, Nancy, could tip him off. He was in his shorts, shaving, when Mrs. Brewster burst in. And such was his composure that he pretty much convinced her she had made the mistake.

Kefauver has rarely received credit for the considerable courage he has shown in the Senate. He is a Southerner who voted to change the rules so that filibusters could be controlled. He has voted for anti-lynching legislation. He has supported the Atlantic Union concept and, unlike some of his colleagues, has not modified his position on this controversial proposal as he gained prominence.

He was also the only member of the Senate to vote against outlawing the Communist party last year. The author of this maneuver was Senator Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.), who blandly conceded he was attempting to "out demagogue the demagogues." The Eisenhower Administration opposed the Humphrey bill, because it would have made shambles of the elaborate program by which the party has been outlawed in fact if not in name.

Kefauver has never made any pretense to oratorical ability. He usually reads his speeches. But he is fast on his feet.

Several years ago Senator Hendrickson (R-N.J.), now the ambassador to New Zealand, rose in behalf of the Atlantic Union proposal. When Hendrickson arose the opponents rubbed their hands. And sure enough, he was going under for the third time when Kefauver appeared. With a few well chosen phrases he rescued his failing ally.

And now those ensigns once so bright are battered and torn . . . symbols of a victory never born.

Some critics, according to Michael Straight of the New Republic, suspect Kefauver's "interest in people and his warmth and his obvious honesty are not deep-seated traits . . . but outward features of a chosen political image."

Well, that may be. But it's also possible that his air of preoccupation — verging on vagueness at times — is behind the suspicion.

Last winter Kefauver hauled up his vintage machine and invited reporter Leslie Carpenter to ride downtown with him. The Senator, Les says, was sipping coffee from a glass wrapped with paper napkins. The gear shift turned contrary. Kefauver, to contend with it, handed his glass to Les who screamed with pain. The glass apparently contained liquid steam.

When Kefauver finished the coffee he asked Les to stick the empty glass in the glove compartment. Les did, but only after picking up a dozen others that tumbled out.

At their destination—the Capitol—Kefauver said he was sorry he hadn't had coffee for Les, and promised to bring along an extra glass the next morning. Only a practical joker or a preoccupied politician would have mentioned coffee after that ride.

Q's and A's On $75,000,000 Bond Issue

The Governor of the State of Missouri has set January 24 for a special referendum election on a $75,000,000 bond issue to finance a building program.

This is one of a series of questions and answers concerning What It Is, Why It Is Needed and What It Will Do.

Q. What is the proposed issue?
A. It is a proposed amendment to the Missouri Constitution which will provide for issuance and sale of $75,000,000 in State revenue bonds to finance construction and equipment of new buildings and repair and renovation of present buildings at various State Institutions.

Q. Why is the bond issue necessary?

A. Missouri's institutions have had to depend upon the General Assembly for specific appropriations for buildings, and such funds have not been forthcoming as needed. For many years institutional buildings have depreciated badly, while at the same time the need for them and for additional structures has increased greatly.

In recent years this neglect has reached the critical stage, and when the serious riots occurred in the State Penitentiary at Jefferson City in September and October of 1954, they brought into sharp focus the need for emergency measures to help solve the problem. Sufficient funds to meet such an emergency were, of course, not available in the general revenue in a lump sum. The dire need for concrete action was evident to everyone, and the Governor and the General Assembly were unanimous in their agreement that a bond issue to provide a lump sum for the complete rehabilitation program was a reasonable and sensible business solution to the problem.

Sunday School Lesson Notes:

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
There are two outstanding messages in the New Testament. One, and the basic one underlying all else, is the message of the Gospel of God's grace. And the other is the message, or messages, concerning the Christian way of life. The one is the message of salvation. The other, with great insistence, sets forth the nature of the saved life.

The Philippian jailer (Acts 16) asked, "What must I do to be saved?" He got a very definite answer. He might well have asked, "What must I do after I am saved?" People somehow always have been more concerned with the first question than the second. But the New Testament insists as much upon the nature of the saved life as upon salvation itself. Paul, for instance, was always emphasizing what Christians should be saved unto as much as they were saved from.

It is the great distinction of St. Luke's Gospel that it sets forth the two great messages of the New Testament with a simplicity and clarity that is unexcelled. Take the message of the Gospel of God's grace. How could it be stated more clearly and beautifully than in Luke's account of the Parable of the Prodigal Son (Luke 15) and the accompanying parables of the Lost Sheep, and the Lost Piece of Silver?

Here is the presentation of God's love and free grace in the stories of an earthly father, welcoming a wayward son; in the conception of God earnestly seeking lost men, as a shepherd persistently seeks a lost sheep until he finds it; in the tale of a woman earnestly sweeping for the lost coin that she can ill afford to lose.

I cannot profess to be a theologian, or to understand all that may relate to salvation and sacrifice, especially concerning the statement in Hebrews 9:22 "without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sin." I can only think that St. Paul, in his writings concerning the Atonement, and the writer in Hebrews were relating the Gospel of God's free, pardoning grace to the conception of sacrifice in the Old Testament, and incidentally to the idea of sacrifice and the necessity of appeasing a just or angry God, or gods, that has permeated practically all religions.

I leave to the more competent all expositions concerning the nature of the Divine Sacrifice; but in the Parable of the Prodigal Son there is no suggestion of the forgiveness and welcoming of the prodigal by punishing someone else. And a transaction of justice is hardly a matter of mercy and free grace.

It is "the goodness of God that leadeth to repentance" (Romans 2:4). I recall a verse that I often heard sung in my boyhood: "My God is reconciled; His pardoning voice I hear; He owns me for His child; I can no longer fear."

The experience is fine, but its source is wrongly stated. It is not God who is reconciled, but man. Witness Paul's appeal (II Cor. 5:20). "Be ye reconciled to God"; and never forget that the very heart of Paul's gospel, was that "God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto Himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them." (Romans 5:19).

Churches Start An Attendance Move Sunday

Sedalia congregations launch this week a Church Attendance Movement with emphasis on regular worship attendance for the period of New Year's to Easter. Reflecting the resurgence of interest in religion throughout America which is demonstrated by increased church membership and new church construction, local committees representing the First Christian, Fifth Street Methodist and Broadway Presbyterian churches have presented the following objectives for the 14-week attendance rally:

To encourage persons not now attending to pledge themselves to do so for the January to Easter period in the hope that, in fulfilling the pledge, a habit of attendance will be formed which will continue beyond the period of the pledge;

To encourage people not now affiliated with any church to discover the satisfaction of regular church attendance;

To further church-members active participation in worship, stewardship, fellowship and service; And, to lead all who participate in the movement to a daily practice of Christian living.

Participating in the organizational program for the Fifth Street Methodist Church is the Commission on Membership and Evangelism, with Ray Rodick as chairman, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Giffen, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Geiger, Mrs. Siegel Woodard, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Duffett, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rapp, Mrs. Myra McFarland, Mrs. Lee F. Soxman, Mrs. Perry Strode and Marva Lee Stonner.

Spearheading the attendance campaign in the First Christian Church are Mrs. Howard Turner, Rolla Lopp and Frank Armstrong, chairman of the membership, worship and evangelism committees. Bob Hare, George Winters and Everett Stumpf will record weekly attendance. Mrs. Ivan Berry, Mrs. Atwell Bohling and Mrs. Jack Menefee have undertaken the preparation of cards and assignments for the congregation's every member visitation on Sunday, Jan. 15.

Assisting in the campaign from the Broadway Presbyterian Church are Dick Snow, Emory Bowman and Leon Hall.

Rev. Funk Will Speak On 'God's Big Little Things' Sunday

"God's Big Little Things" will be the subject Sunday morning of the Rev. David M. Funk, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church. Special music will be given by the choir.

At 7:30 p.m. Monday, the Lutheran League will sponsor the showing of the film, "Midland College," with the Rev. Ralph Ritzen, Fremont, Neb., as guest speaker.

The Christian Comrades Club will have its monthly covered dish dinner at 6:45 p.m. Tuesday, and officers will be elected.

The Day Circle will meet at 1:30 p.m. Thursday with Mrs. Robert England, 1517 West 11th.

The annual congregational meeting, with a pot luck dinner, will be held at 6:45 p.m. Jan. 16.

Rev. and Mrs. Funk will attend a meeting Tuesday at Faith Lutheran Church in Prairie Village, Kan., on the Evangelism Mission program. Accompanying them will be the Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Schmidt, Cole Camp, and the Rev. and Mrs. Raymond Johnson, Sunrise Beach.

There will be a covered dish dinner after the service, and this will be followed by the annual meeting.

The first in a series of sermons on the general subject of "Jesus, the Man and His Message," will be given Sunday at the Fifth Street Methodist Church by the Rev. Lee F. Soxman, pastor. The first talk will be entitled "Jesus, a Real Man." The choir's anthem will be "Hail to Thy Name, O Lord," by Vogler.

A color film, "India, the Crucible of Freedom," will be shown Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in the first of a series of three Sunday evening meetings to consider the work of missions in India.

There will also be discussions based on material found in the book "South of the Himalayas" by Dr. James K. Mathews, son-in-law of E. Stanley Jones. Other material will be used in presenting the subject to the children, who will meet at the same time.

Each of the three evening programs will be preceded by a family fellowship dinner at 6:45 p.m.

New York's Big-Time Boxing Dies; Guild Refuses to Quit

State Athletic Commission Says Crime Involved

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Big-time boxing in New York is dead. Final services will be held Jan. 16.

The Boxing Guild of New York last night voted unanimously not to dissolve its membership as ordered by Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, who set a Jan. 16 deadline. The guild said it had the full support of the 16 other guild affiliates.

"We've done nothing wrong," said Charlie Johnston, president of the International Boxing Guild, of which the local guild is an affiliate. "We're ready to fight in New York right now. But if (Helfand) takes our licenses away, we have to go out of town. We'll go anywhere to get fights. None of us is resigning."

Helfand isn't backing down either, from the tone of his press conference yesterday afternoon. He blasted the Monday night television fight promoters who decided to move to Baltimore, effective Jan. 23, and called one of the Baltimore promoters with whom they will work "Frankie Carbo's representative." Carbo, according to Helfand, is a notorious police character with a powerful influence in boxing.

"I state from the most unimpeachable source that Benny Trota (who promotes in Baltimore with his son-in-law Angelo Munafò) is Carbo's representative in the city of Baltimore," said Helfand. "In the last three weeks, previous to this deal (moving the televised fights from St. Nicholas Arena in New York to Baltimore) Frankie Carbo and Benny Trota, whose real name is Benny Magliano, met in the city of Baltimore to engineer the deal."

Helfand said he would hold a hearing to see if disciplinary action was necessary against Tex Sullivan and Willie Gilzenberg, St. Nick's promoters. Under New York law, a license can be revoked for persistent association with a known criminal. He said Trota and Munafò have records of arrests.

The two Baltimore promoters weren't available for comment but Nick Trota, Benny's brother, denied any dealings between his brother and Carbo and added that Munafò was a liquor licensee in Baltimore, saying, "In Maryland, a criminal can't get a license." Helfand obviously was upset by the fact that the Maryland Athletic Commission, whose chairman J. Marshall Boone had promised to support his fight against the guild, had let him down. In Maryland, Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin ordered a "full and immediate" investigation of boxing in Maryland and called on Boone for a "full and complete report" on the Monday night transfer.

Lasse Favored 3-1 Over Savage in Garden Fight Friday Night

NEW YORK (AP)—Eduardo Lasse, the colorful middleweight from Argentina, is a 3-1 favorite over Milo Savage of Salt Lake City tonight in what may be the last Madison Square Garden fight in a long, long time.

The next boxing date in the Garden is Feb. 3, with the ice show taking over in the interval. However, unless the Boxing Guild of New York can patch up its trouble with the New York State Athletic Commission, the Garden may be dark for many months.

The handsome slugger from Argentina has become quite a favorite with U.S. boxing fans within the last year. He has a string of 31 consecutive victories since his defeat by Kid Gavilan Sept. 13, '52. Among the victims was Gavilan. Charlie Johnson, Lasse's manager, hopes to make a title match during 1956 with the winner of the Ray Robinson-Bobo Olson rematch tentatively set for San Francisco Feb. 24.

Although Savage is barely over the 500 mark with a career record of 38-31-7 for 76 fights he was rated among the top 10 middleweights in the year-end Ring rankings. A rugged scrapper who has been stopped only once in his long career, he should be a good test for Lasse's punching ability.

NBC will broadcast and telecast at 10 p.m. EST.

Thief Didn't Miss

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A vacationer from Colorado Springs, Colo., reported to police Monday that someone broke into his automobile, stole a pistol, a strongbox containing personal papers, and (he thought) a duplicate set of keys to the car. Oda Sutton was right. Yesterday he reported his car stolen from the same place.

Frank Sullivan of Boston and Frank Lary of Detroit received the poorest fielding support in the American League in 1955. Each had 19 unearned runs scored while they were pitching.

BOWLING

President Bob McCurdy of the Sedalia Bowling Association has called a meeting of all team captains and league officers to discuss plans for the coming City Bowling Tournament. The meeting will be held at the Chamber of Commerce office at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 10. All interested bowlers are welcome.

Experts Rule On 'Upsets Of the Year'

By HUGH FULLERTON JR. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The mythical year the Yankees lost the pennant had nothing on 1955 when it came to surprising sports experts. Last year was the year Ben Hogan, Notre Dame, the Yankees and the Bears all were beaten.

Those four events were the upsets singled out by 179 sports writers in the Associated Press year-end poll with Jack Fleck's triumph over Hogan in the playoff for the National Open golf championship getting the nod as the "upset of the year."

He was unknown to most of the spectators and sportswriters when he shot a birdie on the 72nd hole at Olympic to the Hogan, who already was receiving congratulations for winning. But they knew Fleck the next day when he beat Hogan by three strokes in the 18 hole playoff for the title.

Fleck's victory was picked as the "upset of the year" by 41 of the writers and broadcasters and Southern California's football victory over Notre Dame by 37.

That was a shocker, too. Notre Dame had won eight out of nine games and was regarded as one of the nation's topmost college teams going into that final contest of the season. Southern California had lost four — three in a row to Minnesota, Stanford and UCLA. But the Trojans just took command and rolled to a decisive 42-20 victory.

The Brooklyn Dodgers' triumph over the Yankees — after losing the first two games — took third place in the upset balloting. Then came the Chicago Cardinals 54-14 shellacking of the Bears, a setback that cost the Bears a chance for the National Football League's Western Division title. Sugar Ray Robinson's second round knockout of Bobo Olson to regain the middleweight championship was next in line.

Although they finished a half game behind the Rams for divisional honors, the Chicago Bears placed four players on the 22-man two platoon squad. They included end Harlon Hill, guard Stan Jones and tackle Bill Wightkin on the offensive eleven and middle guard Bill George on the defensive team. Pittsburgh was the only team that was not represented on either squad.

Otto Graham, who came out of retirement to lead the Browns to their second straight championship, won the quarterback post in a romp, getting 28 votes to eight for Green Bay's Tobin Rote. It was the sixth time on the all-pro team for the 33-year-old former North-western great who promptly re-

National Basketball All-Star Game Will Find Three Newcomers

NEW YORK (AP)—Three newcomers to all-star competition will be seen in action when the pick of the Eastern and Western Divisions meet at Rochester, N.Y., Jan. 24 in the National Basketball Assn.'s all-star game.

Maurice Stokes, Rochester rookie from St. Francis (Pa.) and Bob Harrison of St. Louis will be on the Western team and Jack George of Philadelphia on the Eastern. Bob Pettit of St. Louis was the only unanimous choice among the 20 players selected by a vote of sports writers and broadcasters. Paul Arizin of Philadelphia and Adolph S. Hayes of Syracuse missed out on only one ballot.

The squads:
East — Arizin, George and Neil Johnston, Philadelphia; Harry Gattlin, Carl Braun and Dick McGuire, New York; Ed Macauley, Bob Cousy and Bill Sharman, Boston and Schayes, Syracuse.

West — Vern Mikkelsen, Clyde Lovellette and Slater Martin, Minneapolis; Stokes and Bobby Wanzer, Rochester; George Yardley, Larry Foust and Mel Hutchins, Fort Wayne and Pettit and Harrison, St. Louis.

George Senesky of Philadelphia will coach the Eastern team and Fort Wayne's Charley Eckman the Western squad.

Negroes Are Innocent Of Disturbing Peace

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Seventy-two Negroes arrested after a disturbance on a public bus were found innocent last night in Municipal Court.

The Negroes, most of them students at Dillard University, were booked with disturbing the peace after they refused to sit behind a sign separating white and Negro passengers. Fanny Carver, 17-year-old student, also was charged with inciting a riot.

Francis Roux, 36, driver of the bus, and James J. Serpas, who was the only white passenger, refused to sign affidavits accusing the Negroes.

Of the 13 American League pitchers who worked in more than 200 innings last season, Willard Nixon of Boston and Frank Lary of Detroit allowed the least home runs. They each gave up 10.

OKLAHOMA COACH TO NEBRASKA—Oklahoma's grid coach Bud Wilkinson, left, congratulates his backfield coach, Pete Elliott, at Miami, Okla., after the latter accepted the head coaching job at the University of Nebraska. Alan Ameche Only Rookie Named to AP All-Pro Team

NEW YORK (AP)—Alan (The Horse) Ameche, bulldriving full-back of the Baltimore Colts, was the only rookie named to the Associated Press 1955 all-pro team which included three members each from the National Football League champion Cleveland Browns and Los Angeles, Western Division titleholders.

Ameche, the league's ball-carrying champion, received 26 of the 40 votes cast in the annual balloting by Associated Press member paper football writers and AP staff men. The former Wisconsin powerhouse earned the nomination by rolling up 961 yards in his first season, 194 of them in his first game.

Although they finished a half game behind the Rams for divisional honors, the Chicago Bears placed four players on the 22-man two platoon squad. They included end Harlon Hill, guard Stan Jones and tackle Bill Wightkin on the offensive eleven and middle guard Bill George on the defensive team. Pittsburgh was the only team that was not represented on either squad.

Otto Graham, who came out of retirement to lead the Browns to their second straight championship, won the quarterback post in a romp, getting 28 votes to eight for Green Bay's Tobin Rote. It was the sixth time on the all-pro team for the 33-year-old former North-western great who promptly retired again after scoring two touchdowns and passing for two more in Cleveland's 38-14 title triumph over Los Angeles.

Other Browns voted on the AP "dream team" were offensive tackle Lou Groza, the place-kicking specialist, and Frank Gotski, the indestructible center.

Rams named were guard Duane Putnam on the attacking unit, and Andy Robustelli and halfback Willard Sherman on the defensive group.

Here's how the offensive eleven shapes up:
In the line are ends Pete Pihos of Philadelphia and Hill, guards Putnam and Jones, tackles Groza and Wightkin and center Gatski. The backfield consists of Ollie Matson of the Chicago Cardinals, Frank Gifford of the New York Giants, Ameche and Graham.

The defensive team consists of ends Gene Brito of Washington and Robustelli, tackles Art Donovan of Baltimore and Bob Tonnell of San Francisco, middle guard George, linebacksers Joe Schmidt of Detroit and Roger Zatkoff of Green Bay, backs Bob Dillon of Green Bay and Sherman and safetymen Jack Christiansen of Detroit and Emlen Tunnell of the Giants.

Among those receiving honorable mention was former Kansas State star Veryl Switzer for his work at safety.

Orange Bowl Fans Finally Getting Away

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Thousands of football fans who flocked to Miami for the Orange Bowl game have found themselves stranded for transportation home but the situation should be back to normal by this weekend.

Harrassed air lines clerks said today the past three days and nights have been " hectic " but the backlog of passengers was beginning to ease somewhat and "stand-bys"—those without reservations—were getting out.

Bus lines also reported a letup in the holiday rush and said travel should be back to normal in a few days. The same report came from railroads.

The game, won by Oklahoma over Maryland, 20-6, attracted a record crowd of 76,561 spectators.

Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, 81-year-old trainer of Nashua, is celebrating his 25th straight year of winter racing in Florida.

They're After Ernst

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Dick Ernst's name pops up in every conversation about prospective big league baseball players here.

The former Ohio State star, who led the Big Ten in batting with a .342 average batted .350 for the Navy Bluejackets. This despite the fact the Cincinnati boy played almost every position on the diamond.

The Washington Senators have invited the 175-pound, 23-year-old ensign to spring practice. He is primarily a catcher.

No Inspiration Here

INSPIRATION, Ariz. (AP)—Harry C. Fansler and Stanley Dornik will go hunting again next year alone. They took their wives this year and the ladies each bagged a deer. But Fansler and Dornik came home empty handed.

An 18-man fencing team will be chosen to represent the United States in the 1956 Olympics in Australia. The team will be picked following the national championships in New York, June 7-15.

Coaches Settle On Sr. Bowl Ball Carriers

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Coaches Buddy Parker of the North and Paul Brown of the South today decided which of their players will have the job of moving the ball in tomorrow's seventh annual Senior Bowl game.

The coaches also named tough defenses with the accent on weight.

Parker, coach of the pro Detroit Lions, said he will alternate Wisconsin's Jim Haluska and Iowa's Jerry Reichow at quarterback. Each accounted for more than 1,000 yards this season in the big 10, principally on passes.

The south also has fine tossers in Bob Hardy of Kentucky, most valuable player in the Blue-Gray game at Montgomery, and George Herring of Mississippi Southern. Hardy will probably do most of the signal calling, with Herring slated for punting duty.

Brown, coach of the pro champion Cleveland Browns and a long rival of Parker, named four running backs. Alternating at left half will be Don McIlhenny of SMU and Fob James of Auburn, the Southeastern Conference's leading ground gainer.

Ed Vereb of Maryland's Orange Bowl team will run out of the other halfback slot, and Auburn's bruising runner, Joe Childress, will be the fullback.

For the North, Lou Baldacci of Michigan and Bob Moss of West Virginia will be called on for the wide plays. Fullback Bill Murakowski of Purdue was picked for the power bursts.

Others named to the starting lineups include:
Harold Burnine of Missouri, offensive end and Jim Furey of Kansas State, linebacker for the North; Bo Bolinger of Oklahoma, offensive guard and Henry Moore of Arkansas, linebacker for the South.

Maryland's Football Coach May Take Job At North Carolina

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Maryland's head football coach Jim Tatum was to come here today to discuss a similar position at the University of North Carolina.

There seemed to be nothing definite about the meeting which was to be with Chancellor Robert B. House, Athletic Director C. P. Erickson and other North Carolina officials.

Erickson has been in Miami with Tatum, apparently discussing the coaching situation with him.

Horttor's Trip LaMonte Cagers 71-60 Thursday

The Horttor Plumbing Co. team romped over an independent LaMonte squad for a 72-60 basketball victory Thursday night at LaMonte. The win boosted Horttor's record to 6-4 to date.

The Horttor cagers, of Sedalia, broke away fast in the opening quarter and surprised their opponents with a 19-12 lead for the period. LaMonte quickly realized what had happened and struck back in the second stanza, paralyzing the Sedalians 21-6 for a 33-25 halftime command.

The plumbers began to regain their effectiveness in the third period while sustaining a 14-17 deficit, and relentlessly shoved the LaMonte aggregate aside in the final quarter by a 32-10 degree winning by a comfortable margin.

Murphy was high in the scoring department with 22 points for the Horttor plumbers. Burke mustered 13 to top LaMonte's contention.

Los Angeles Open Under Way At Rancho Course

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The 30th annual Los Angeles Open, listing the great names of golf to compare with illustrious winners of the past, gets under way today at the newly groomed Rancho municipal course.

The purse is $30,000 and the winner will collect $6,000.

Julius Boros, the top money maker of 1955; Doug Ford, the golfers' "Golf of the Year" for winning the PGA championship; Gene Littler, last year's local champion, and Jack Fleck, the dark-horse surprise winner of the United States Open are listed in the bulky field teeing off over the 7,048-yard, par-71 course.

To this list must be added Cary Middlecoff, the Masters champion and off his play here yesterday. Tommy Bolt, the Los Angeles Open victor in 1952.

Bolt shot a 65 in the Pro-Amateur Celebrity event, giving the completely revamped course a new record.

Littler, the young pro from Palm Springs, won the main event last year over much the same type of course in 276, which many believe may be hard to match this time.

Ben Hogan also played in the Pro-Am. It was more of a social occasion for the now virtually retired Texan and he turned in a creditable 74. He will not play in the 72-hole tournament proper.

The Los Angeles school lost five games on a December trip and broke even on four home games.

San Francisco Dons Open With Pepperdine

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Dons, seeking their 37th straight victory, open their California Basketball Assn. schedule here tonight with a game against Pepperdine.

The Dons, just back from seven road games that included a victory over UCLA for New York's Holiday Festival title, are not expected to have too much trouble with Pepperdine.

The Los Angeles school lost five games on a December trip and broke even on four home games.

Sam Fuller Meets That Tough Job: Hour Full of Laughter

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—One of the toughest assignments in the world is when a man is told: "You're to make them laugh for an hour."
But that's what they told Sam Fuller a few weeks ago at NBC when he was dispatched to Hollywood with orders to assemble a comedy program for the NBC-TV Sunday spot opposite Ed Sullivan on CBS-TV. The result, beginning this Sunday, is The NBC Comedy Hour.

It takes the place of The Colgate Variety Hour, which went that way after its audience was mauled by Sullivan's larger audience.
"There's an erroneous impression abroad that we're getting together some kind of an amateur hour," Fuller said the other day when he dashed back to headquarters from the West Coast firing line. "But this is definitely not amateur night in Dixie. We'll have the best comedians. We're going to do a show that looks fresh and thinks fresh—and is fresh."
The host will be none other than Leo Durocher, a gentleman of impeccable charm and vast good humor since he left the Polo Grounds and consummated a fat contract with NBC. Music will be incidental to comedy on the new program, which will appear three out of four weeks on Sundays.

Speaking of that heavily contested Sunday night spot, Kate Smith has just been signed for five appearances on the Ed Sullivan Show at a figure reportedly running over $100,000. Her first appearance will be Feb. 5.
I hereby apologize to younger Perry Como fans for calling Como a "cool, dry guy." As the mail testifies, in this set "cool" and "dry" means "cold" and "dull." But when I wrote that I was thinking of the martini set in which "cool, dry" means "refreshing," "relaxing." A difficult language, this English.

Baby Sitter Takes Trip Around World

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Diapers and safety pins sent Mrs. Letitia Holloway around the world.

Life was humdrum, she said, for 75 of her 76 years. Then, a year ago, she told the Baby Sitters Guild of Hollywood she was going away.

"It was fun, but oh, it fatigues me when I think how many diapers I changed to earn the money for my trip," she recalled last night.
She left San Francisco on a freighter for Japan. Thereafter she traveled by other ships, trains, planes, buses and taxis to Hong Kong, Singapore, Bangkok, And then to Burma, India, Egypt, Syria, Turkey, France, Germany and Spain.

She was describing a riot in Istanbul when her phone rang.
"Got to run," she announced when she had answered the call. "An assignment."

Yep, Mrs. Holloway is baby-sitting again. But she has a lot more to think about.

So Wet, Noah Decides To Build Another Ark

SEATTLE (AP)—It's been right wet in these parts lately. If you want to know how much rain has fallen you just go into your basement with a yardstick.

It's so goshawful wet that Noah is building an ark.

That's no gag, Charles F. Noah is building a 31-foot pleasure boat in his front yard, which faces Lake Washington.

Naturally, he has named it "Noah's Ark."

Woman Has Whiskey Intake Last 7 Years of 700 Gallons

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Marjorie Plamp, a young choir singer whose whiskey intake for the last seven years totals 700 gallons, is no secret drinker—but she has a drinking secret.

Every day, five days a week, a year in and year out, she takes aboard an average of 25 two-ounce snifters of bourbon—or about two full bottles.

Even the steadiest patron of the cup that cheers might wonder how a 5-foot-2 young lady weighing only 115 pounds could put down all that stuff and remain clear-eyed and steady—even if she came from Kentucky (which she does) and had two hollow legs (which she definitely doesn't).

The answer lies in Miss Plamp's drinking secret. She doesn't down the stuff. She merely swishes it around in her mouth for a few seconds, then spits it out.

"Yes, all of it," said Marjorie firmly. "Every drop."

She is, so far as she knows, the world's only full-time lady whiskey taster.

"And I love the work—every moment of it," she said. "I'd be lost without it."

For the benefit of those interested in seeking steady (and you do have to remain steady) employment in this interesting field, Miss Plamp offers little advice. Chance played a considerable role in her own career.

After graduating with a degree in chemistry from a Catholic girl's college in Louisville, she got a job nine years ago as a laboratory technician with the Brown-Forman distillery.

Comic Back From Brush With Death

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Back from a brush with death, Buster Keaton says he is ready, willing and able to resume his long career as "the most knockabout comic in the business."

A month ago, he was stricken with internal hemorrhaging. Rushed to the hospital, he was placed on the critical list. His condition was termed "very grave" for a number of days.

Now he's up and around, and there's even a smile instead of his famous dead pan.

"Yes, it was a tough time," he remarked at his modest bungalow in the heart of Los Angeles. "But I didn't know anything about it. I was fighting the anesthetic when they put me under. Every time I started to come out of it, I'd be fighting again. So they kept me out cold for four days."

"They pumped 10 pints of blood into me in 14 hours. Ten pints—that's as much as I had in me, so you can see how much I lost. They cut a hole in my trachea so I could breathe and were feeding me intravenously in my ankle. At one time I had six tubes stuck in me."

Perhaps the reason for his amazing recovery was the fact that he has remained in good physical condition since childhood. Said he: "There's no doubt about it—my father and I had the roughest act in vaudeville."

He continued his violent routines during his long movie career. Only two months ago, Keaton at 60 was performing prat falls on a TV spectacular that would have jarred most younger men into insensibility.

Despite his illness, Buster said he will be able to resume his physical comedy.

His plans for the future will be held up until a final checkup in three or four weeks. Then he plans to resume his TV career. He plans to stay here until late June, when he'll go to work on "The Buster Keaton Story," which will star Donald O'Connor at Paramount. Buster will help on the script and comedy routines.

Up-to-date techniques of making commercial ice cream are being offered in a two-week course at Rutgers University.

shake it and get my sense of smell back," she said.

"There's one other thing. I used to have a great deal of trouble with my teeth. But since I became a taster seven years ago I haven't developed a single new cavity."

She emphasized, however, she wasn't recommending whiskey-rinsing the teeth 25 times a day as a substitute for a visit to the dentist. It merely has worked out that way with her.

Miss Plamp sings alto in her church choir, her hobby is going on camping trips, and her current beau is a Princeton University English professor.

Has her unusual occupation had any unusual effect on her?

"Well, if I have a cold I have to let the samples pile up until I

Carl Sandburg Spends Quiet 78th Birthday

FLAT ROCK, N.C. (AP)—Carl Sandburg, 78 today, says he sometimes feels he's "lived past my years."

Yet the great poet says he hopes to have published in the future a book of poetry "which will be longer and better than anything I have ever gotten out."

Sandburg also has plans for a sequel to the autobiography of his first 20 years, "Always the Young Strangers."

Most of his four or five-hour working day, he says, is spent answering a heavy mail.

Still, says the famous Lincoln biographer, "I'm sticking pretty close these days, and not taking on as heavy a schedule as I used to." He doesn't make so many lectures as before, but he'll take part Feb. 12 in "A Lincoln Portrait," an Aaron Copeland performance on the Ed Sullivan television show.

Sandburg's personal prescription for happiness, possibly in inverse order, follows:

1. "To be out of jail."
2. "To eat and sleep regular."
3. "To get what I write printed in a free country for free people."
4. "To have a little love in the home and a little affection and esteem outside the home."

Actor Has Wrenched Back From Parachute

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor James Stewart was nursing a wrenched back today, his studio said, after being dragged 50 feet in a parachute harness during the filming of "The Spirit of St. Louis."

The actor was pulled over rough ground when a battery of wind machines, producing a blizzard, caught his parachute. Stewart, playing the role of Charles Lindbergh, was supposed to have bailed out and landed in a snowstorm.

State Teachers Association 100 Years Old

During 1956 the Missouri State Teachers Association will observe its centennial.

The first meeting of the Association in St. Louis on May 22, 1856 was attended by 110 persons from 22 different counties. The meeting was made memorable by the presence of Horace Mann who addressed the meeting upon the necessity of establishing normal schools for the education of teachers. This became an objective of the Association until its attainment with the establishment of normal schools by the General Assembly in 1870.

Attendance at early meetings of the Association contrast sharply with recent meetings having an attendance of 15,000. In 1858 approximately 50 members attended. Attendance from 200 to 400 was common at meetings in the 1870s. The membership of the Association did not reach 1,000 during its first 50 years.

At the early meetings of the Association, prepared papers were read on the then current educational problems. Following the formal presentation, discussion would take place in which the participants would enter with real enthusiasm.

Declaring in 1856 that "the subject of education, in its influence upon the destinies of our state, yields to none in importance..." the Association has worked constantly for the improvement of education in Missouri.

Small membership and meager financial resources did not deter the infant organization from seeking its objective. In January, 1857, it memorialized the General Assembly upon the establishment of normal schools. Following its meeting in 1857 it published the first and only issue of "The Missouri Journal of Education" which it proclaimed to be "the first periodical of the kind ever issued west of the Mississippi River." At the same time it employed an agent and instructed him among other things to hold teachers' conventions and to employ all other available means to awaken interest in the cause of general education throughout the state.

A review of the educational developments in Missouri shows that they were either preceded or accompanied by recommendations of the Missouri State Teachers Association. Typical of the Association's interests through the years have been the lengthening of the school term beyond four months, the establishment of compulsory education, the provision of free textbook and pupil transportation, the improvement of teachers' qualifications, the education of the handicapped, and the equalization of educational opportunities.

Recent activities of the Association have centered upon the improvement of the educational provisions in the State Constitution which was achieved in the 1945 Constitution and in amendments in 1950 and 1952. The new Constitution removed the rigid limitations of the 1875 Constitution. The 1950 amendment increased the levy that could be established by majority vote. The 1952 amendment increased the bonding capacity of school districts from five to ten per cent of assessed valuations as a step toward meeting the tremendous increase in school enrollment.

Last year the Association supported the School Foundation Program and the accompanying tax proposal as measures to achieve its long-time objective of providing an adequate educational opportunity for every boy and girl in the state.

Plans have been made to commemorate the Association's 100

Deadline Set For Seeking New Corn Allotment

The Missouri State ASC Committee has established Jan. 31 as the deadline date for filing application for a new farm corn allotment in Missouri, according to Murray C. Colbert, chairman of the Missouri State ASC Committee.

These applications shall be filed in writing at the local county ASC office and application forms are available in that office, according to Colbert. No farm will be considered for a new farm allotment if there has been corn grown on the farm during any one of the years 1953, 1954, or 1955, and applications will be considered on the basis of (a) tillable acres, type of soil and topography, (b) operator's farming system, (c) extent to which his livelihood depends on his farming operations, (d) reason for not planting corn on the farm in 1953, 1954, and 1955, (e) base acreage on other land farmed by the operator, and (f) reason for requesting an allotment.

Although marketing quotas do not apply to corn, under the acreage allotment program the production of corn in 1956 on a farm which has no corn acreage allotment would make all corn produced on such farm ineligible for price support in 1956.

Colbert stresses the fact that no application will be considered if it is received after the deadline of Jan. 31.

Falls Asleep in Bus, Wakes Up in Highway

ASHLAND, Va. (AP)—Robert McLoud, 28, Birmingham, Ala., fell asleep on the back seat of a bus yesterday while on his way home from a New England visit.

The next thing he knew, he "was waking up in the highway (U.S. 1, five miles south of Ashland) with a policeman's face over me."

In some manner that state police, the bus driver and McLoud himself could not explain, he had grabbed the handle to the emergency door just in front of the back seat and tumbled out.

McLoud, who suffered an injury to his right ankle, said he was the lone passenger on the rear seat when he fell asleep.

According to state police, the bus driver estimated his machine was traveling 45-50 m.p.h. when McLoud fell out.

Whole Family Meets Again in a Hospital

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—It's just like old home week at Miami Valley Hospital for Mrs. Harry C. Fox, 76, of nearby Germantown.

Mrs. Fox, her son, her grandson and a great-grandson all are patients in the hospital.

The first admitted was Tommy Fox of Farmersville, the 6-month old great-grandson, who had an emergency abdominal operation Dec. 27. Next was Clifton Fox, 28, of Germantown, the grandson, also admitted for an operation last Monday. A day later, Clifton's father Edgar, 54, of Dayton, who is the son of Mrs. Fox, entered the hospital for treatment of a liver condition.

Two hours later, Mrs. Fox was admitted for treatment of diabetes.

Years of service to the boys and girls and the teaching profession of Missouri. Special features of the centennial observance will be a film depicting the historical development of education in Missouri to be widely used through the year, an exhibit of early educational materials, and a commemorative pageant at the Association's annual meeting in Kansas City this year.

Plans have been made to commemorate the Association's 100

Says Moderns Have Become Lazy Thinkers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Modern society's greatest affliction, says a University of Michigan psychologist, is that the present generation doesn't have to do enough thinking.

Dr. Wilma Donahue told 5,000 members of the Los Angeles County Medical Assn. that one of the best ways to keep young is to continue to use the brain, "for without using it constantly, brain cells atrophy just as muscle cells do when there is lack of exercise."

She said yesterday that she is convinced children today do less thinking than their grandparents.

"Everything is done for us," she said. "We are told what to think and seldom have to meet new situations. The farmer of the past had to meet some new crisis every day. Less thinking means that only 10 per cent of this generation really are creative people."

"It used to be considered that older people are dumber than younger ones, but new studies show this is not necessarily true. Twenty years after Iowa State University graduates were tested for intelligence, they were given identical tests. After 20 years it was amazing to find that the intelligence had increased instead of being dulled by time. Comprehension, vocabularies and general information had increased."

"After 50, however, there may be some decrease in mental abilities. The decrease may be only the lack of speed. What happens to athletes as they age isn't due to poorer muscles; it's more that their brains are less able in speed of perception and response."

Dr. Donahue advised older people who are thinking of retiring to do more than merely prepare to develop a hobby.

"It should be much more than a hobby," she said, "and something the person thinks will be of real value. Those who earlier have learned to get along well with people are least apt to get cantankerous as they age."

Adlai's Son Leaves Hospital Thursday

CHICAGO (AP)—John Fell Stevenson, son of Democratic presidential candidate Adlai E. Stevenson, left Passavant Hospital yesterday after confinement for two weeks for treatment of injuries suffered in a car collision in which two schoolmates were killed.

Stevenson, 19, walked with the aid of a cane. His right leg, encased in a plaster cast, is minus the kneecap, which was shattered in the accident near Goshen, Ind., Dec. 21.

Young Stevenson expects to return to studies at Harvard University Sunday.

Celebrates Her 101st Year This Saturday

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mrs. Phoebe Marie Holmes will observe her 101st birthday tomorrow with a bowl of yogurt, fresh vegetables and a song.

"I still have a good clear voice and I'll do a little singing at my birthday party," she said.

She attributes her longevity to fresh vegetables and abstinence from meat. "I haven't eaten meat since I was 7 years old," she said. "The answer is prayer and vegetables."

Toy Trains Go to Work

NEW YORK (AP)—Toy electric trains are a safe and efficient means of transporting small quantities of radioactive materials within a laboratory, says Steelways magazine. Toy trains transport radioactive materials at the Hanford Atomic Energy Commission plant, and radioactive liquids for medical patients at the Cleveland Clinic.

Monaco Residents Celebrate Prince's Decision to Marry

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP)—"Bravo, prince, well done," said a gardener at Monte Carlo's famed casino.

"Now the life of the dynasty can be assured," said the mayor of the nation's only town.

Thus the residents of this tiny Mediterranean principality responded today to long-awaited word that their bachelor prince

Rainier III would finally have a princess — American film star Grace Kelly — and they hope an heir.

"Monegasques" decked the town with their country's colors — red and blue — and put the day aside to celebrate.

Flower-festooned pictures of the prince showed in shop windows everywhere. Beside them, when they could be found, were photographs of the blonde beauty whose betrothal to the 32-year-old prince was announced yesterday.

Mayor Robert Boisson was jubilant.

"All Monegasques are happy at the news," he told reporters, "happy because the prince will be married and he could have children so the life of the dynasty could be assured."

The celebration began last night as soon as the glad tidings became known. Champagne and wine merchants did a land office business. The Monte Carlo radio talked of practically nothing else.

National Assembly President Louis Aurelia wired the prince in Philadelphia, saying "The Assembly at a special meeting, and I myself, express to your highness the joy felt at the news of your engagement."

The matter is of more than passing importance for Monaco's residents. If the royal family ceases to exist, tax-free Monaco becomes part of France with its taxes and military service.

No one seemed too distressed that their prince was not bringing home a princess of royal blood.

"Certainly," said one subject, "we would have preferred a true princess. That would have been perfect. But after all, we are in 1956, and we should be of our time."

"All will be for the better, if she makes our prince happy."

And what sort of life will it be in this 370-acre dot of land on a great splatter of map?

To start with, there's a palace on the Mediterranean, a yacht, four cars and a budget in six figures, even a private zoo. The prince has a palace staff of three women and three men, plus a personal guard of 12 motorcyclists and four chauffeurs.

Both Mrs. Kelly and the prince are sports devotees, and Monaco opens plenty of such pastimes.

Custodian Finds Pig In School Cafeteria

MAYSVILLE, Ky. (AP)—When the custodian at Minerva High School went to work he found a 100-pound pig trotting around in the school cafeteria. An investigation showed the pig either had fallen or been pushed through a window which had been opened. It was turned loose in hope its owner would find it.

Should Pay Fine, Too

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—An Oklahoma City woman was angry at having to pay a traffic fine in Municipal Court yesterday. She told Judge James Demopolos: "I think the policeman who caught me should be fined too. After all he ran a stop sign to catch me."

She finally paid the $10 fine.

Expert Thinks Opening Of Tomb a Waste

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Whatever old Thomas Walsingham's tomb may contain when they open it, Dr. Frank C. Baxter feels certain it won't be evidence that Christopher Marlowe wrote Bill Shakespeare's plays for him.

Baxter, a Shakespearean scholar and professor of literature at the University of Southern California, expressed his opinion in discussing the latest revival of the Marlowe-Shakespeare controversy.

"Whoever wrote the plays of Shakespeare it was not the learned Marlowe," Baxter said yesterday in an interview with a CBS reporter. "One has only to read a page of 'Dr. Faustus' (by Marlowe) and 'King Lear' (by Shakespeare) side by side to see that there were two different minds and two different kinds of perception."

Three days ago in England, an Anglican bishop's court granted permission for opening of the 500-year-old tomb of the Walsinghams, lords of the manor of Seadbury, in Seadbury chapel of St. Nicholas Church, Chislehurst, a London suburb.

This permission was sought by Major John—Marshall-Townsend present lord of the manor, who hopes to prove that Marlowe wrote Shakespeare's poems and plays. Thomas Walsingham was the patron of Marlowe, who was born in 1564, the same year William Shakespeare is believed to have been born.

"They will find only some bones and a handful of dust in Walsingham's tomb," said Baxter, who received his doctorate from England's Cambridge University in 1934. "They will find no manuscripts which would show that Marlowe wrote Shakespeare's plays."

Find Family of Five Frozen to Death

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—The five frozen bodies of the Simeon Wassela family were found yesterday on the snow-swept tundra near Lake Iliamna, 250 miles southwest of Anchorage.

Only two of their nine sled dogs remained alive. Dead were the 40-year old father, his 35-year-old wife and their three children, ranging in age from less than a year to 14.

A Civil Air Patrol plane made the discovery. Searchers said the family apparently died from exposure.

The Wasselas started from their home at Newhalen Dec. 27 for an overland trip to the native village of Iguigig, 50 miles away.

Farm Debate Flares

Argument Follows Pledge On Farm Problems In State Of Union Message

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—A farm debate flared up in the Senate late today, accompanied by Democratic demands that President Eisenhower "keep the promises" he made to agriculture in 1952.

The argument began a few hours after Eisenhower, in his State of the Union message, said he will open a stepped-up attack on the "deep-seated problems" plaguing farmers.

Hits At Ike's "Promises"

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) complained that Eisenhower "promised more than any other candidate" four years ago and "has delivered less." Now that another election looms, Humphrey said, the President is adopting many farm proposals that Humphrey, as a Democrat, has pushed for three years.

In today's message to Congress, the President urged that the plight of agriculture be placed "above and beyond politics."

"Too much is at stake," he said. "No group is more fundamental to our national life than our farmers."

Suggests Action By Benson

Humphrey suggested that Eisenhower call in Secretary of Agriculture Benson, read to him the farm pledges Eisenhower made in 1952, and then instruct him to "carry them out or resign."

This brought Sen. Bender (R-Ohio) to his feet with a protest that the Democrats, now in control of the Senate and House, "have done nothing" about the legislation referred to by Humphrey.

Earlier, Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader, said it is obvious that the Eisenhower administration "has become frantic about the farm situation."

Langer Joins In Attack On Ike

Sen. Langer (R-ND) also took the President to task, saying he permitted rye, oats and wheat to come in from Canada last year when the prices of these crops were declining in the United States.

Banging on his desk and shouting, Langer said Eisenhower "did nothing" to stop the grain imports despite the pleas of some senators.

One Man Is Injured As Explosion, Fire Destroy 40-Foot Yacht

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Jan. 5—An explosion and fire today destroyed a 40-foot gasoline-powered yacht moored to a pontoon at the Missouri Drydock & Repair Co. on the Mississippi River, injuring one man.

Theodore Blattel of Anceff, Mo., reported the blast came as he opened a hatch to investigate a hissing noise in the engine room. The explosion opened the hull of the vessel and it submerged to the deck level. The flames were put out by the Cape Girardeau fire department.

Blattel was taken to a hospital with burns of the face and a back injury. Elvin Gibbar of Forniell, the only other person aboard the yacht at the time, escaped injury.

Cause of the blast had not been determined, but it possibly resulted from gasoline fumes.

The yacht, owned by Warren Durkin of Gary, Ind., was being overhauled by the company here.

Grace Kelly Is Engaged To Prince

Movie Star Says She Will Wed Him Soon After Easter

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5—Grace Kelly, blonde, beautiful and elegant star of the movies, today announced her betrothal to Prince Rainier of Monaco and said the wedding date will be soon after Easter.

Announcement of the engagement, while came after a courtship on the Riviera, was made jointly in Monte Carlo and by Miss Kelly's parents in Philadelphia.

Plans for the actual marriage were disclosed later in the day at a news conference in the Kelly home—an event which sent hundreds of newsmen and photographers, film cameramen and television technicians to the scene.

Grace's father, John B. Kelly, millionaire builder, gazed with a slight touch of dismay at the big crowd and said:

"It's a good thing that I built this house myself or there'd be no place for any of them."

In High Spirits

Both Miss Kelly and the prince, head of the tiny European principality and considered one of the most eligible bachelors in the world, were in high spirits, indeed.

Someone asked the star if she planned a large family.

She laughed, nodded a blithe yes. Then her mother, herself a decidedly attractive woman, cut in: "Why certainly she'll have a large family. I'm a grandmother and I like a lot of grandchildren."

The prince, all in blue except for his shoes, told the gathering that his bride-to-be will be known in Monaco as, "Her Serene Highness, Princess of Monaco."

Actual Wedding Date Not Set

Miss Kelly said the actual wedding date has not been set, nor has it been decided where the ceremony will be performed. She added it doubtless will be either in Philadelphia or Monaco.

"I am leaving for the West Coast this weekend," she went on, "to start work on one of two pictures I'm contracted for. Work on the first one is scheduled to start Jan. 17, and this assignment should take about two months."

She said she intended to take a leave of absence after completing the two pictures, but declined to say whether she would retire from the screen after her marriage.

"I plan to live in Monaco," she said. And that was all.

Blame Killing Of Youth On Social Workers Shortage At Boys Town

ST. JAMES, Mo., Jan. 5—Officials of Boys Town of Missouri said today the killing of a teen-age parolee in a police chase "might not have happened" if the institution had enough social workers.

William Donald Young Jr., 15, was killed early Wednesday by St. Louis police officers after he was spotted attempting to force a side door of a store and ignored an order to halt.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide in the case.

William F. James, president of Boys Town, said the youth had been under the guidance of a social worker from the institution since he was released on a "community trial" about a year ago.

James said the social worker resigned to take a better job two months ago and Young hadn't been supervised by the institution since.

"Had Boys Town had enough social workers to assign another to the Young case," James said, "this shooting might not have happened."

The boy was originally sent to boys town after he was convicted of a store burglary in Wentzville in 1953.

4 Balk At Red Queries

Refuse To Tell Probing Senators Whether They Had Ever Been Reds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—Four witnesses refused today to tell senators searching for Red influences in the press and other news fields whether they had ever been Communists.

One of the witnesses, Dan Mahoney, a rewrite man on the staff of the New York Daily Mirror, said "no sir, I am not," when asked whether he now is a Communist.

However, he refused to tell whether he had ever been a Communist. The other three—William A. Price, a reporter for the New York Daily News; Richard O. Boyer, a free lance writer of Grotton-On-Hudson, N. Y., and Otto Albertson, a composing room employee of the New York Times—refused to say whether they now are Communists or have been in the past.

Invokes First Amendment

Price, in declining to answer question, refused to invoke the Fifth Amendment's privilege against compulsory self-incrimination. He based his refusal on the First Amendment, which covers the right of free speech.

Price said it was beyond the power of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee to inquire into his personal and political beliefs, as well as his associations.

Chairman Eastland (D-Miss) repeatedly "ordered and directed" Price to answer questions put to him, saying the subcommittee did not recognize his refusal to answer on the ground of the First Amendment. Eastland and counsel J. G. Sourwine told him he could refuse to answer under the Fifth Amendment, but not the first.

Boyer, Mahoney Use The Fifth

Boyer and Mahoney invoked the Fifth Amendment after being told their refusal to answer on the ground of the First Amendment was not recognized. Albertson was the only one of the four witnesses heard today who did not make an issue of the First Amendment. He simply claimed the protection of the Fifth.

The New York Times said editorially today that, "It seems quite obvious that the Eastland investigation has been aimed with particular emphasis at The New York Times." Eastland replied that The New York Times is not under investigation. He said the inquiry was aimed at communism wherever found, and not at any particular newspaper or group of newspapers.

The Immigration Service entered a deportation order against him in January 1951 because he was no longer pursuing the studies for which he was admitted as a temporary student visitor.

Immigration officials said they had been notified by hospital authorities that Liu had "received maximum benefits" from his hospitalization and is now considered well enough to travel alone.

Reds Alleged Forcible Detention—To Deport Chinese Student From Missouri Next Sunday

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—A Chinese student, alleged by Red China to be held against his will in a Missouri mental hospital, is to be deported to his homeland next Sunday.

The Immigration Service made the announcement today. It said that after considerable delay, the British have come through with a transit visa which will enable the student, 36-year-old Liu Yung-Ming, to pass through Hong Kong, described as the only available gateway for delivering Liu to Red China.

Were Anxious To Deport Liu

When Communist China made a charge of forcible detention of Liu last week, through diplomatic channels and the Red Cross, immigration officials said they have been anxious to get rid of Liu for four years, but had been unable to get the Hong Kong transit visa for him. There were indications the British felt he might remain in Hong Kong, where his father lives, and possibly become a British charge.

Liu has been under treatment in a state mental hospital at Farmington, Mo., after his case was diagnosed as schizophrenia. He has been in the hospital since 1949 when he was reported to have suffered a breakdown after getting his master's degree at the University of Missouri.

Railroad Asks Right To Cut Out Station

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—St. Louis—San Francisco Railroad asked state Public Service Commission authority today to discontinue its agency station at Deepwater, in Henry County.

Frisco said the business from service to and from Deepwater is far less than the cost of keeping an agent there. From Jan. 1, 1954 to Aug. 31, 1955, Frisco reported, station costs amounted to $7,213 while revenues assignable there totaled only $4,843.

The railroad said all freight could be handled at Clinton, 13 miles away.

Only Fathers Can Visit In Maternity Ward

Because of the crowded conditions in Bothwell Hospital there will be no visitors allowed in the maternity ward except fathers.

Rucker was accompanied by his brother, Eddie Rucker, 1001 South Carr, who suffered minor bruises. Wilmot was accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Sylvia Wilmot, who was not injured.

Rucker told Sgt. E. W. Van Winkle and Trooper Richard Joos he was driving about 30 miles an hour and headed west on Highway 52. As he came around a curve the front end of the auto began shaking and he saw the car approaching from the west and pulled to the narrow shoulder.

The soft gravel gave way and caused the steering wheel to jerk out of Rucker's hands, skidded sideways, wheeled around headed east and rolled slowly over on its right side. The Oldsmobile struck the rear end barely hanging up on the truck body.

The truck body was badly damaged, all windows broken out. Rucker escaped with minor bruises.

Youth Seriously Hurt In Car-Bike Mishap Thursday

Larry Burke, seven years old son of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Burke, 1614 West Fifth, is in a serious condition from injuries received about 6 o'clock Thursday night, in a car-bicycle accident at Fourth and Barrett. The boy is in the Bothwell hospital.

The boy was riding his new bicycle, received Christmas, and was headed west on Fourth street. The car a 1949 Ford sedan was driven south on Barrett by Ronald Johnson, 25, of 242 South Stewart.

The bicycle according to Johnson struck the left front fender of the car and threw the boy to the pavement.

Larry received a painful laceration of the right side of his forehead, concussion and some bruises. He was taken to the hospital in the McLaughlin ambulance where Dr. John Lamy rendered medical treatment.

Slight damages resulted to the bicycle and only slight scratches occurred on the fender of the car.

Ike Predicts Balanced Budget In Union Message to Congress

US Ups Pace In Missile Development

Races To Build Long Range Missiles Before Russia Does

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—President Eisenhower reported today that the United States has speeded its pace in the race to develop continent-to-continent missiles before Russia does. Such missiles could be armed with hydrogen warheads.

He said, in his State of the Union message, that "the development of long-range missiles has been on an accelerated basis for some time."

Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.), chairman of the Senate-House Committee on Atomic Energy, said yesterday "there is reason to believe" that Russia already may have a supersonic missile capable of delivering a hydrogen explosive on a target 1,500 miles away.

Such a missile would be a step toward development of the Intercontinental Ballistic Missile (ICBM) of 5,000-mile range.

While Eisenhower's statement seemed related to Jackson's comment, the President actually completed work on his State of the Union message last Tuesday.

The message reflected optimism on the state of national defense. "Short of war, we have never had military strength better adapted to our needs with improved readiness for emergency use," he said.

But he cautioned that this would continue to cost money—"the maintenance of this strong military capability for the indefinite future will continue to call for a large share of our national budget."

Slight Injury In Car-Truck Accident

A 1948 Ford truck of the Continental Baking Co., driven by Wayne Rucker, 1905 South Snead, overturned on U. S. Highway 52 in the east part of Cole Camp about 2:30 p. m. Thursday.

The truck overturned in front of an oncoming 1952 Oldsmobile 98 sedan driven by F. E. Wilmot, 47, of near Stover, which stopped as it nudged into the rear of the truck.

Rucker was accompanied by his brother, Eddie Rucker, 1001 South Carr, who suffered minor bruises. Wilmot was accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Sylvia Wilmot, who was not injured.

Rucker told Sgt. E. W. Van Winkle and Trooper Richard Joos he was driving about 30 miles an hour and headed west on Highway 52. As he came around a curve the front end of the auto began shaking and he saw the car approaching from the west and pulled to the narrow shoulder.

Huge Program Submitted By Ike Recommends Abstention From Any Attempt To Cut Taxes Now

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—President Eisenhower laid before Congress today a massive "program for the Republic" that contemplates a balanced budget, a token payment on the national debt, but no tax cuts now.

In language paralleling that of some leaders of both parties in Congress, Eisenhower spoke against lowering taxes at the expense of "fiscal integrity" and a balanced budget; against "going further into debt to give ourselves a tax cut at the expense of our children."

Says Outgo Will Match Income

He forecast that government income will match outgo by midyear, and said he would propose a continued balance for the year following. Many Republicans and some Democrats applauded that, but the reaction to the message in general was the usual melange of platitudes and digs, keyed pretty much to party allegiances in this election-year Congress.

The presidential report encompassed recommendations—some new, some old, mos. of them advertised in advance—for a stepped-up, "many-sided attack" on the farm problem, for highway, school, housing, health and disaster relief programs.

List Of Recommendations

It urged immigration legislation, aid for chronically depressed communities, labor law changes, an atom-powered commercial ship, water and power projects, equal pay for equal work for women, and an investigation to determine whether Negroes are being deprived of their right to vote and are being "subjected to unwarranted economic pressures."

With Russia's leaders following "tactics of retreat and zigzag" and still unwilling "to create the indispensable conditions for a secure and lasting peace," Eisenhower proposed "constant improvement" of American's defenses and those of the free world.

Bids Foreign Aid Commitments

He backed this up with a bid for limited authority to make longer-term foreign aid commitments, a request for a substantial boost in funds to spread understanding of America through the U. S. Information Agency, and a promise to keep up the pressure against the "vast wrongs" of a divided Germany, the "bondage of millions elsewhere, and the exclusion of Japan from United Nations membership."

The 8,500-word document was plunked down in Senate and House and read to the legislators while the President continued recuperating from a September heart attack at Key West, Fla.

Nowhere in it was there a definite clue as to how long Eisenhower proposes to stay around to get stewardship to his program—the biggest political puzzle of a politically-minded Congress.

Much Like Last Year's Message

But in tone and content it was much like the message a year ago which a number of Democrats, at least, interpreted as something of an announcement for a second term try.

The reading of the message by the clerks took around an hour. Many legislators didn't bother to show up for the process, in the absence of Eisenhower himself. Those who did followed the message from copies, some of them checking or underlining with pencil or pen. Now and then there was a spatter of applause.

Sample comment: Senate Republican Leader Knowland (Calif.) said the message outlined a record of performance "to which all Americans can point with pride." He predicted congressional acceptance of a "substantial part of the recommendations" for the future.

Says Ike "Reveals Leadership"

House Republican Leader Martin (Mass.) who has predicted Eisenhower will seek re-election, said that once again the President "reveals his leadership for the good of all Americans—all free men and women everywhere."

House Democratic Whip Albert (Okla.) said he wished somebody would point out anything new or "that could possibly be helpful to Congress in preparing a legislative program."

Rep. Bolling (D-Mo.) said: "Somebody has just stolen the Democratic platform."

Rep. Abernethy (D-Miss) said the message was "principally a lot of generalities most of which were of the New Deal variety, including a political attack on the South and a plea of guilty to the utter failure of the administration's current farm policy and programs."

President's Views Supported

Although some legislators were not giving up hopes for squeezing in a tax cut later on, there was considerable support for Eisenhower's financial stand.

Apparently seeking to allay any fears that military power will be reduced, Eisenhower said the budget is approaching a balance

"while we continue to strengthen our military security."

"I expect the budget to be in balance," he said, during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1956.

"I shall propose a balanced budget for the next fiscal year ending June 30, 1957."

This, he said, will require keeping excise sales taxes, on items such as liquor, cigarettes, cars, cosmetics, at the present level. It also means, he said, that corporation income taxes, which otherwise would come down April 1, must be held at present rates.

Lynda A. Otten, A.S. Heimbürger Wed in Double Ring Ceremony

Miss Lynda Anne Otten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Otten, Versailles, was united in marriage with Arthur Sherman Heimbürger, Ft. Lee, Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Heimbürger, Troy, in a double ring ceremony at four o'clock December 26 at the First Methodist Church in Versailles with the Rev. E. D. Watkins, Jr., officiating. Baskets of white gladioli with branched candelabra holding white tapers were on either side of the altar.

Mrs. Arthur Eickhoff, organist, Versailles, played an arrangement of wedding music preceding the ceremony with the traditional wedding marches played during the ceremony. Robert Hall, Versailles, sang "Because" and "I Love Thee," and at the close of the ceremony, Mrs. Milton Arnold, Stover, sang "The Lord's Prayer," while the bride and groom knelt at the altar.

Hugh Phillip Hart and Lawson Nichols, Versailles, were the candlelighters.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin and Chantilly lace gown with a fitted bodice of lace over satin with matching bolero. The sleeves were long and tapered to points over the hands. The full, ballerina-length skirt with overskirts of net and lace, was worn over hoops. The bridal illusion veil was edged with lace and attached to a half hat of satin embroidered with seed pearls and iridescent beads. Her bouquet was of white roses and sweet peas with streamers of knotted satin ribbon. She wore a single strand of pearls and carried an heirloom lace handkerchief belonging to her grandmother.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Don Claxton, Kansas City, wore a sky blue satin dress fashioned with a fitted bodice and matching bolero with a full skirt worn over hoops. She carried a nosegay of pink carnations and her headdress was a bandeau of silver lace fastened with tiny rosebuds.

Gene Fain, Carthage, served as best man.

Hugh Phillip Hart and Lawson Nichols, Versailles, Robert E. Dales, St. Joseph, and Robert E. Chasteneau, Vandalia, were ushers. Mrs. Otten chose to wear for her daughter's wedding a Dior blue crepe dress with mauve accessories. The mother of the bridegroom wore a smoke blue tulle silk dress with white accessories. Both wore corsages of pink sweetheart roses.

A reception was held after the ceremony in the home of the bride's parents with 75 guests present. The bride's table held an arrangement of pink carnations with lighted white tapers in crystal holders. Mrs. Met Hughes, Mrs. E. R. Beckner, and Mrs. Hugh Hart, Versailles, served Mrs. Dave Foster, Columbia, was in charge of the guest book.

The couple left for a short trip in southern Missouri. For traveling, the bride chose a violet tweed suit with black accessories, and a corsage of white rosebuds.

The couple will live in Petersburg, Va., after Jan. 2.

The bride attended the University of Missouri and the Kansas City Art Institute. She has been a designer for Story-Smithson, Inc., Stover.

The bridegroom attended the University of Missouri for four years and was a member of the ATO social fraternity. He is now attending quartermaster's school at Ft. Lee, Va.

Out of town guests attending the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Heimbürger, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Sullivan and sons, Troy; Dr. and Mrs. L. F. Heimbürger and sons, Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. William Otten, Salisbury; Mr. and Mrs. Don Claxton, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Francis, Kansas City; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sholey, Jefferson City; Mr. and Mrs. Dave Foster, Columbia; Mr. and Mrs. Milton Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Smithson, Kenneth Martens, Stover; Sam Overfell, Lake Ozark; and Don Weeks, Eldon.

The day was greatly enjoyed by all.

Entertain Guests

Miss Una Fay Hudson Exchanges Vows With Donald Edward Lewis

Miss Una Fay Hudson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Fredrick Hudson, LaMonte, and Pvt. Donald Edward Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Lewis, Kansas City, exchanged wedding vows in a double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. R. J. Allwell at the LaMonte Methodist Church at eight o'clock, December 23. White gladioli and white chrysanthemums, intermingled with silver pine, decorated the church.

Miss Carol Goetz, Parkville, organist, played the lovesong from Romeo and Juliet, "I Love You Truly," and "Because." Miss Patricia Byler, Boonville, sang "I Love Thee," "Through the Years," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Jimmy Don Fiser, Bob Gunter, Jim Lye and John Fowler, all of Kansas City, were the candlelighters.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina-length gown of white satin with a white lace jacket and a flared skirt. The veil was attached to a crown decorated with pearls. Her bouquet was of white carnations.

The maid of honor, Miss Wanda Wood, Kansas City, wore a dark green velvet ballerina length dress with flared skirt. Her flowers were red carnations.

Walter Lewis, Kansas City, served his brother as best man.

Jimmy Don Fiser, Bob Gunter, Jim Lye and John Fowler were ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hudson chose a navy blue dress with navy accessories, and a corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a two piece beige shantung dress with a corsage of red roses.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the basement of the church. The three-tiered white wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom, and encircled with holly leaves. Red tapers enhanced the white linen cloth. Mrs. Clarence Evans, Dresden, Miss Carol Watling and Miss Geraldine Heuermann, Kansas City, served at the bride's table. Mrs. Eldon Rieckhoff, LaMonte, was in charge of the guest book.

The bride is a graduate of LaMonte Public High School, and is now in her fourth year at Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Southeast High School, Kansas City. After two years at Central Missouri State College, he is now serving in the army at Camp Chaffee, Arkansas.

Polio Vaccine
Made Second
Top Headlines

By PAUL R. MICKELSON
AP General News Editor

President Eisenhower's heart attack was the landslide choice of editors as the biggest news story of 1955.

Never has there been such unanimity of opinion on the year's top story in the 23 years the nation's top newsmen have been voting in the annual Associated Press poll. At year's end, reports and speculation of the President's condition still was the biggest news, leaving to be answered the single question that is sure to produce the momentous story of '56:

Can and will he run for and win re-election?

It was early on the morning of Sept. 24 that the President, visiting his mother-in-law near the summer White House in Denver, was stricken. His attack, a shock and a grief-stricken nation was told, was a "moderate" one — somewhere between mild and serious. After only one slight setback, he rallied and improved under the care of eminent specialists, who said his superb physical condition had saved him.

Seven weeks later, he returned to Washington, thence to his Gettysburg farm for recuperation and a modified work schedule on the job of the presidency, described as the toughest on earth. Optimism rose as he stepped up his work and appointment schedule but within a month of his recuperation down on the farm, his doctors noted fatigue. They warned him to take it easier.

But as anxiety about his final recovery did lessen, anxiety concerning his political plans increased. His heart ache became a throbbing headache for the Republican party which was far from sure it could retain the presidency next November without him.

As almost a century ago, Gettysburg became a magic dateline. The world awaited his news.

Here are the nine others among the 10 best:

2. Salk polio vaccine. When Dr. Jonas Salk, brilliant young Pittsburgh scientist, announced to the world on April 12 that massed tests the year before had proved his new vaccine's ability to prevent up to 90 per cent of cases of paralytic polio, there was great joy and rush to produce and inject the magic serum. But within two weeks, joy and certainty of a preventive of the dread disease turned into doubt and confusion. Scores of children developed paralytic symptoms after taking Salk shots. The government suddenly halted approval of all Salk vaccine. Vaccinations were stopped.

Investigation and more research finally proved to most scientists satisfaction the Salk vaccine was as generally effective as first claimed. The great difficulty, said pharmaceutical manufacturers, was that some early batches manufactured last spring contained live virus and so caused the disease in children first inoculated. As improved, safe vaccine finally was manufactured, a leader in the pharmaceutical field explained: "We never had a tougher product (Salk vaccine) to make. That is, the line between making a vaccine that is safe is very thin. The manufacture of this vaccine is the greatest problem the biological industry was ever faced with."

3. Floods and hurricanes. Ten deadly hurricanes whirled out of the tropical spawning grounds in 1955, taking hundreds of lives in the United States and Mexico and causing damage up in the hundreds of millions. Hurricane Diane in August induced floods that took more than 200 lives and caused incalculable damage in Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

DISILLUSIONS — This is the same scene as the summit Geneva conference of the Big Four. But here the foreign ministers and their aids are sitting at the tables to learn that the friendly spirit shown at the summit meeting had raised false hopes of a more effective adjustment of the issues involved in the Cold War.

4. The Geneva Conference. Held in July, the "Meeting of the Summit" lifted hopes for an end to the cold war, but in less than four months the Russians seemed intent on a newer and even tougher line. Abandoning their direct pressure against the military alliances constructed by the West, Soviet leaders tried a new tack by trying to swing all of Asia and Africa to their side.

5. The Princess Margaret-Peter

Townsend romance. No romance in modern times was built so high and crashed so hard. Britain's princess, who was married on Oct. 31 with a 113-word statement, ending all speculation of what most of the world thought would be a romance culminating in marriage to the divorced air hero 35 years her senior.

6. Argentine revolution. On Sept. 10, Juan Domingo Peron, dictator for 10 years, fell. There was great joy in Argentina. Peron fled and many civil rights were returned to the people.

7. Malenkov's resignation. He resigned in February. The surprising reshuffle put Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev in power. Smiles replaced cold stares and frowns. The Iron Curtain was lifted high enough to permit an exchange of visits of Russian farmers and technicians to the United States and visits to Russia by some Americans. But it turned out to be only a brief interlude.

8. The Graham bomb murder. It was one of history's most shocking crimes. John Gilbert Graham loaded a crude home made bomb in his own mother's suitcase just before she boarded the ill-fated airliner, Nov. 1. All 44 aboard, his mother included, perished. His motive for the insane act, Graham said, was to collect his mother's insurance.

9. Desegregation. The entire South was in turmoil as high courts applied more pressure in 1955 for equal rights to Negroes. In many respects this was far and away the biggest, most significant story of the year.

10. Americans freed by China. Heading the list were 11 U. S. air men, freed in August, with new stories of "brain washing" to tell. Many Americans still are held in Red China and hope for their release and falls with the tides of Cold War.

PROTECTION — Off to a bad start in the spring, polio vaccine production finally attained a sound basis.

Sedalian Takes Part
In Ground, Air Firing

FORT RILEY, Kan. — Specialist Third Class Robert Keightley, 22, son of Mrs. Ruby Keightley, 117 East Main, recently took part in ground and air target firing with his unit at Ft. Riley, Kan.

Specialist Keightley completed the exercises with the 1st Infantry Division's 48th Anti-Aircraft Artillery Battalion.

A radio operator, he entered the Army in April 1953 and completed basic training at Ft. Bliss, Tex. He wears the Army of Occupation Medal for service in Germany.

Keightley is a former shipping clerk for Montgomery Ward and Company.

grateful to my leaders for helping me (and sometimes pushing me) to get things done as they should be done.

I also find that all my projects are helpful in my married life since I must cook every day, the house must be cleaned as I learned in Home Service and, of course, the articles I made in Home Furnishings are a part of the furnishings of our home. Next year I plan to make my own garden and can the produce. All in all I am very glad I live in the United States where farm boys and girls are free to take 4-H work to prepare them for the years ahead.

I have won county awards in Gardening for four years and went to the American Royal Conference in Kansas City in 1952. I won an award from the Sears Roebuck Foundation one year in Home Furnishings and have used the things that I won with a great deal of pride in my home.

In my 11 years of 4-H work, I have won 27 blue ribbons, of which five were state; 35 red ribbons, of which five were state; and 40 white ribbons, of which one was state. I have been secretary, game leader, vice-president and president of the South Abell 4-H club of which I have been a member.

Regional Library Notes--

Trees Are Important to Both
Farm and Urban Dwellers

Trees are important to both farm and urban dwellers. Timber, shade, fruit and nut trees may be grown in most places in the United States if proper selection of variety and care of the tree is provided. For general information on tree culture, perhaps the most inclusive is the 1949 yearbook of the Department of Agriculture "Trees". The choice and care of shade trees for all sections of the country, the farm woodland, tree farming on the large scale, regulations of our national forests, tree diseases, good conservation practices, wildlife and forests, the use of woods and the vocation of forestry are all included.

"The Management of Farm Woodlands" by Cedric H. Guise is a very complete guide to the small or large farm timber crop. Here are ways to manage, maintain, harvest and sell your lumber crop. "Timber in Your Life" by Arthur H. Carhart is a wide-scope presentation of how wood and wood products serve us. The sad practice of "cut, slash, and burn" has given us depleted forests but modern conservation methods are bringing them back.

"Fruit Science" by Childers, "General Horticulture" by Talbert and "Small Fruit Culture" by Shoemaker cover the subject of fruit trees pretty thoroughly. They give orchard know-how from soils to markets. All types and kinds of fruits are included. "Fruit in the Garden" by Norman Taylor is designed to provide a supply of fruit for the family on a small amount of space and with a reasonable amount of equipment and effort. It is divided into bush fruits, strawberries, stone fruits, pom fruits and grapes, blueberries, dwarf and trained fruit trees. "Fruit Science" by Childers includes all the latest spray materials and equipment, ways of packaging and methods of freezing and storing for both the commercial grower and the home gardener.

"Improved Nut Trees of North America" by C. A. Reed and J. Davidson provides all the information that the nut tree grower should know about planting, grafting, pruning, fertilizing, pest control and nut curing for any section of the United States. It will be a surprise to many to know that English walnuts, thin-shelled pecans and filberts have been adapted to the North for some years.

"Shrubs and Trees for the Small Place" by P. J. Van Melle, "The Encyclopedia of Trees, Shrubs, Vines and Lawns" by Albert Wilkinson and "Bonsai, Miniature Trees" by Claude Chidman should help the home owner with landscaping and shade tree problems. These and other books are available at the Boonslick Regional Library.

J. Haldiman
Is Checker On Sealed Corn

By Mrs. T. W. Miller

TIPTON — John Haldiman, of Centertown, was in Tipton this week carrying on his duties as a checker on government sealed corn. John is a brother of Herman Haldiman, Tipton MFA Cooperative Association manager.

Leo Kutenkuler spent the Christmas holidays here with his family. He recently accepted a position as a county examiner out of the state auditor's office in Jefferson City and is at present carrying on routine duties in Holt County at Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Yontz, Sr., spent Christmas Day in Kansas City as guests at a turkey dinner at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Linus Linnebur and daughter, Angela. Other guests at the dinner included Mr. and Mrs. Yontz's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Yontz and daughter, who also reside in Kansas City.

Mr. and Mrs. George Thixton spent the Christmas holidays at Cuba, as guests of Mrs. Thixton's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wilson and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Quigley were guests at a turkey dinner Christmas Day at the home of Mrs. Quigley's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Routsong in Sedalia. Other family members present were Mr. and Mrs. David Routsong and daughters, and Mrs. P. W. Henry, all of Sedalia, and Miss Sallie Newkirk, of Jefferson City.

John Cornell, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Cornell, was a patient Friday and Saturday in St. John's Hospital, St. Louis, undergoing an eye operation from which he is improving. John's mother is with him for the present in St. Louis staying in the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Cornell.

Mrs. Al Martin motored to Columbia last Tuesday bringing home her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Chapman and young daughter, Joan Elizabeth, who spent Christmas in the family home here. They were joined Sunday by Mr. Chapman. Mr. and Mrs. Chapman and daughter are spending a part of this week in St. Louis County visiting his sister, Mrs. Frank Forst. The family will return to Tipton for a visit before going back to Columbia where Mr. Chapman is a student in Missouri University.

Mr. and Mrs. John Carter and children, were guests at a Christmas Day turkey dinner at the home of Mrs. Carter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hays, southeast of Fortuna. Other family members present were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hays and family, of Laurel Heights, and Mr. and Mrs. Erceel Hays, Jr.

Mayor and Mrs. Virgil R. Helms and sons, spent the Christmas holidays in Eldon. Saturday night they were with Mayor Helms' parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Duvel at Florence.

Windsor Church Has
Candlelight Service

A beautiful Christmas carol and candlelight service was given by the four choirs of the Windsor Baptist Church Sunday evening. The program had been arranged in four parts to bring in an impressive manner through scripture readings and choral numbers the thought of how the Christmas message announces God to man, leads men to God, reveals God to man and reconciles man to God.

At the close of the service the deacons of the church came forward to light their candles from the pastor's. They then passed through the congregation lighting the candle of the first person in each row, who in turn lighted the candle of the one next to him. When all the candles had been lighted, the pastor read the words of Jesus in Matthew 5:14-16 and the service closed with the singing of "Holy Night" by all the choirs.

Mrs. Belford Jackson directed the Chapel and Adult choirs, Mrs. Jesse Scroggins, the Junior choir; and Mrs. Walton Elbert the Cherub choir. Mrs. Chester Curtis and Mrs. John W. Sample Jr. were the accompanists. The scripture readings were given by the pastor, Rev. Theodore Davis.

and Linda of Tipton, Ia. Other relatives visiting in the home during the week were Mrs. Ernest Carter and Don Carter, Kansas City; Mrs. Tillie Neal and John Neal, Clifton City; Mary Bidstrup, Clifton City.

New 4-H Clubs

During the past month I have visited several areas in the County that do not have 4-H clubs in an attempt to determine the wants and needs as far as 4-H was concerned. I noticed that both children and parents were interested; in fact, they had been interested for some time but were afraid to notify the extension office of this interest for fear that they would be called upon for leadership duties. We at this office do not appoint leaders. They are strictly voluntary and in most cases are chosen and asked by the club members. This is as it should be. In a democratic nation we should have our vote in choosing our leaders and if we fall in the minority we have the right to work peacefully for a change.

If any reader is in an uncontacted community where they feel there is a need for 4-H in your community, please contact the extension office so that we may follow up your lead. If you know of any other area where there might be interest for a 4-H club, let us know about that also. To meet the demand we must know where the demand exists. Now is the time to act.

Project Meetings

I notice by the reporter cards that several clubs are holding regular project meeting; while other clubs are either not reporting or lagging. During these months when field work is held down is an excellent time to be training 4-H members. There are so many things that can be accomplished now that will save time next spring and summer and will also add to the knowledge and training in each individual project. A lot of practice and preparatory work can be accomplished now in judging and demonstration work.

Demonstrations do not need to be complex, they can be simple, as long as they are instructive, educational, and tell the complete story. By starting early the members may get their facts worked down into a pattern where they can present their story so that it will be clearly understood by all who hear it. By starting work early the members can work up charts, posters, or other illustrative material that aids in their presentation of material.

For those training in judging it would be wise to spend some of their project time as well as individual time becoming familiar with the score cards used in their individual project. All project leaders should have a copy of the 4-H club Circular 85, "Sharpen Your Judgment," which lists the various score cards and tells how reasons and placings are scored. In clubs that have several members in a project it would be wise to have several club judging contests and give reasons. The 4-H motto is "to make the best better." How can we know what is best? How can we know how to make it better unless you learn standards and develop the ability to make decisions?

St. Joseph Mayor Announces Candidacy For Congressman

ST. JOSEPH (AP)—Mayor Stanley I. Dale today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Congressman of the 6th District.

The post now is held by William R. Hull, Weston Democrat.

Now 35, Dale was only 29 when elected mayor of St. Joseph in 1950. He was re-elected in 1954. In 1952 he was an unsuccessful candidate for the GOP nomination for governor.

Farm Program Gets Additional Tailoring

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new suit in which the administration hopes to dress up its farm program was modeled for additional tailoring to-day before Republican members of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Secretary of agriculture Benson arranged to meet with the senators, as he did with House members yesterday, to discuss with them the proposals he will suggest that President Eisenhower recommend to Congress in a special message Monday.

He also arranged to meet later with Senators Ellender (D-La.) and Aiken (R-Vt.), the Democratic chairman and senior Republican on the committee, before flying late today to Key West, Fla., to make his recommendations to the President tomorrow.

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associate Press Foreign News Analyst

President Eisenhower's suggestion for a long-term foreign aid program can have only limited meaning in the cold war unless Congress approves it with a unanimity which now appears very doubtful.

Since it would depend upon year-to-year appropriations, recipient nations will not be able to give it complete confidence in the face of possible congressional changes of mind.

They will have before them, however, the record of the Marshall Plan for Europe, set up for four years on the same basis and carried through to completion despite serious opposition in its later stages.

The Marshall Plan represented one of the most unselfish and daring national actions ever taken by any country in an effort to establish an international atmosphere in which it could live comfortably. The current proposal would revive the policy for an area—the underdeveloped area of the world—which is now threatened even more seriously than was Europe in 1947.

The ability of the nation to accept the Russian challenge for domination of Asia and Africa was apparent in the President's discussion of the fiscal situation. He said the United States government, after nearly a generation of deficit financing, would be on a pay-as-you-go basis within the next six months.

And that takes into consideration the anticipated increases in foreign aid, military preparedness, and domestic social services such as health, security, schools and roads.

The President did not hold out any definite promise of being able to do all this and reduce taxes, too, although he was obviously hopeful that could come after a start on reduction of the national debt. And there he may run into a snag with Congress, where Democrats and Republicans alike would prefer to put off expenditures, especially in such an unpopular field as foreign aid, in favor of a tax-cutting appeal to the voters this year.

Why is foreign aid unpopular, in the face of the successful record of the Marshall Plan?

There are many reasons. No amount of argument will convince some people that reliable allies can be bought.

There is, indeed, no certainty that the economic ties the international experts wish to forge will prove strong enough to thwart the Communists. It's just something to try in the face of Russia's adoption of the method already introduced by the United States.

The prospect of a long-term need for continued expenditures of this type leads to a certain feeling of futility. If it's never going to end, some people ask, and if there is no certainty of definitive victory in the foreseeable future, and if there is uncertainty about the value of the underdeveloped nations as allies even if they are won, why not hoard American strength and depend upon a policy of massive retaliation for security?

That's isolationism, already proved by World War II to be the weakest reed upon which a nation ever leaned. To revert to it would be to abdicate the nation's international leadership, and to renounce the hope of ever establishing the world atmosphere in which American wish to live.

What Are the Best-Dressed Women of the World Like?

NEW YORK (AP)—What are they like and how did they get that way—these women named to this year's list of the world's best dressed?

The annual list, compiled by the New York Dress Institute and announced last night, is the result of a poll of fashion editors and designers. Because of ties, the list totals 14 this year.

The two women tied for first are both young, beautiful and disciples of simplicity. Mrs. William Paley, wife of the head of CBS, is a veteran of the list, despite her youth. Grace Kelly, movie actress of the year, is a newcomer.

Mrs. Paley, the former Barbara Cushing, is the mother of four children and stepmother of two more. Tall, lovely and brunette, she is a former fashion editor who used to buy only two outfits a year, now gets her wardrobe from Mainbocher, one of the world's most expensive dressmakers.

Miss Kelly represents the American ideal of the nice girl. Blonde, beautiful and modest, she likes the casual look, goes in for simple suits, sweaters and skirts, sporty sports clothes for daytime, goes elegant and dramatic only after dark.

A perennial among the best-dressed is the Duchess of Windsor. Her supremacy is challenged this year, however, by a princess who refused to break the traditions of the British royal family for love, Princess Margaret. They tied for second place.

Tied for third are Mrs. Byron Foy, who clings to her long - bob hairstyle despite trends, is deliberately dressy, likes black and white, buys her clothes in Paris; and Countess Rudolfo Crespi, one of the prettiest American girls ever to marry a foreign tie. One of New York's O'Connor twins, she now lives in Rome.

Others are: Mrs. Winston Guest, Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Jr., Mrs. Jacques Balsan, Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, Mrs. Arturo Lopez - Willshaw, the Countess of Quintanilla, Mrs. Ovela Culp Hobby and Mrs. Henry Ford II.

Fined For Leaving Nails In Thoroughfare

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 5.—Glen Allen Crosby, who accidentally left a busy thoroughfare with 4,800 roofing nails causing a dozen flat tires, got off with a $15 fine in court today.

He's already paid for having all the flats fixed. Crosby, a roofer, pleaded guilty to a charge of littering a highway in the court of Magistrate Leslie T. Lewis at suburban Clayton. Lewis said he made the fine light because the victims appeared satisfied.

Crosby was driving on Lindbergh Boulevard in St. Louis County Dec. 10 when a 30-pound can of nails and a ladder fell out of his truck. He got the ladder but left the nails.

The bridge is being razed by the road district and the salvaged girders will be used in other smaller bridges in the district, according to Hontz.

The men began cutting off the west bridge bank to slope it enough for the large road grader to tow the truck from the bridge and back on to the road. The only damage to the truck was to the cab when one girder came down and bent the left front corner of it.

US Army To Install Its Nike Missiles In Western Europe

HEIDELBERG, Germany, Jan. 5.—The United States Army plans to install its Nike super-sonic anti-aircraft guided missiles in Western Europe, it was announced today.

Army headquarters here said survey of sites for the radar-controlled weapons would begin immediately. The announcement described the plan as "a significant step strengthening the over-all European air defense system."

The Nike rockets "intercept and destroy enemy air targets regardless of evasion action," the Army said.

Nike units are stationed around American cities and strategic targets but have not been seen overseas. The Nike, a large rocket, is named after the Greek goddess of victory. The Army claims it has proven highly effective against modern jet aircraft in tests in the United States.
